A HALFWAY HOUSE AT THE CROSSROADS OF WAR'

New Plea Made by Pearson To Organize Permanent UNEF

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson has made a new plea for establishment of a permanent United Nations Emergency Force.

He warns in the current issue of the American quarterly Foreign Affairs that failure of the UN force now in Egypt may deliver a fatal blow to the concept of peace supervision and avoidance of host-tilities through the UN General Assembly.

Elaborating on ideas put forward in the Commons earlier this year, Mr. Pearson suggests that member nations of the UN, excluding the permanent members of the security council, should be willing to earmark forces for duty in securing cease-fires.

In this way, the UN might be able to construct "a halfway house at the crossroads of war."

If we fall in this a damaging blow—perhaps a fatal one—will be dealt to the whole concept of supervising the peace and avoiding hostilities through the UN assembly.

If we succeed, then we must build on that success so that when we are faced in the future with similarly complicated and dangerous situations we can avoid the hasty improvisations of last autumn . . .

WATCH IN HORROR

The tornado lashed out of a black rainstorm. An estimated 100,000 people watched as it swayed a leisurely, jerky course through west and northwest Canada. The winds of gale force with heavy thunder showers and hail battered the area again early today.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

3 Almighty God, who has created us for Thyself and who has planted within us a spirit like unto Thine own, forgive us that we have often forgotten our high calling and denied our spiritual kinship.

4 For today help us to remember that the true measure of what we say, we believe will be in what we do for Thee; in Jesus' name. Amen.

ADAMS TRIAL WITNESS 'DISAPPEARS'

LONDON (Reuters)—The face of the first defence witness in the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams suddenly contorted.

His arms raised slowly and he gradually bent over backwards until he disappeared from view below the edge of the raised witness box.

That said Dr. John Harman, was a demonstration of a spinal convulsion brought on by morphine poisoning. He said the victim would be talking normally as he was, go into contortions and then come back to normal again.

After his testimony, the trial adjourned for the day.

New Riots Sweep Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — New violence erupted in Santiago today in defiance of emergency military clampdown on the country to stamp out anti-inflation rioting.

About 1,000 Chileans attacked police and army troops in the heart of this capital city, where Tuesday night rioting, punctuated by frequent army fire, left scores of dead and wounded.

The mobs, defying a government order to remain indoors, tried to storm the doors of the Pan American Bank and were driven off after heavy army gunfire. The rioters tried to overwhelm the soldiers, then fled as the soldiers opened fire.

The riots followed a week of turbulent demonstrations, mostly led by students, against Chile's runaway cost of living. Unofficial reports placed the death toll as high as 60.

President Carlos Ibanez warned the population he stands for "energetic use of arms, whatever the consequences," to put down the violence.

A government decree, read over a nation-wide radio hookup, announced a state of siege, a form of martial law. The government blamed the rioting on international communism and lawless groups seeking to damage the economy.

FOUR EXECUTED

Underscoring the government's intentions, a firing squad was reported to have executed four persons at dawn for sacking and looting shops.

Demonstrations erupted in other cities, including Valparaiso, Concepcion and San Antonio.

Wired Knob Electrocutes Toronto Youth

PONT DALHOUSIE, Ont. (CP) — A 16-year-old oarsman was electrocuted near his rowing club Tuesday when he grabbed a storehouse door-knob that was wired to keep out intruders.

Burdette Bristow of Port Dalhousie, owner of the building, was charged with manslaughter.

Thousands had watched in fear and awe as the tornado lashed viciously out of a black rain cloud Tuesday afternoon.

About 196 persons were treated in hospitals. Some were in critical condition.

A new tornado alert was issued by the weather bureau for the northwest corner of Texas.

Damage to property in Dallas was estimated at $4,000,000.

Thunderheads hovered north and south of Dallas as emergency crews continued to search through timber, brick and other debris. Winds of gale force with heavy thunder showers and hail battered the area again early today.

Eisenhower Reveals Secret Crisis Drama

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Eisenhower said today that at the height of the Suez Canal crisis last year he had considered inviting the British and French prime ministers to fly to Washington and announce a Suez cease-fire.

But he added that he decided that until the situation was such that it would be understood by the whole world, he should not do it.

In questioning at his press conference on the Middle East situation, Eisenhower said that in his correspondence with Prime Minister Ben-Gurion, the Israeli leader did not mention

Woman Murdered In Courtenay Home

COURTENAY—RCMP here today charged Victoria-born Leland Eugene Miller, 30, with murder following the knife slaying of a woman at about 10 p.m. Tuesday at a house three miles north of here on the Campbell River Highway.

Dead is Mrs. Dorothy Frances Duyvejonck, 31. According to reports the couple had been living in the home since March 13, having moved here from Victoria.

The house is in an isolated area with no close neighbors.

Police arrived on the scene with a doctor at 10:30 p.m., and found the woman dead.

They described the cause of death as "severe knife wounds in the neck."

The surroundings were orderly, and there was no indication of a struggle.

A hunting knife found at the scene is being held as evidence.

Mrs. Duyvejonck's seven-year-old daughter, reported ill with measles, apparently slept through the night.

Little is known of Miller except that he was born in Victoria, and during his short residence in Courtenay was understood to have been working as a mechanic in a city garage. It was believed that one time he was a seaman.

His lawyer, Larry Hill, said Gordon retained him for the appeal of John Bryson, 45, who went to prison for six years after being convicted in the holdup, which occurred five months before the slaying of the policeman.

Gordon confessed to the crime in a letter addressed to the minister of justice written before he was hanged for the slaying of Constable Gordon Sinclair. Hill said he has not yet picked up the letter for forwarding to Ottawa, but knows its contents.

He said he will obtain statements from police officers involved in the Bryson case and send them to Ottawa with the confession.

Peace Hopes Dim Says Ben Gurion

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Ben-Gurion told Israel's parliament Tuesday night there is little chance of a Middle East peace as long as Egypt's President Nasser "and the present generation of Arab rulers are in power."

He cautioned that there is a possibility of "renewed Arab attacks—and also, if Israel is victorious, this might be followed by another round."

"In that sense there never will be a final victory for Israel in the Middle East of our times."

As parliament debated, an Israeli army spokesman said Jordanians fired on a police car Tuesday night and wounded two Israeli policemen near Tirath Yehuda village. The hamlet lies close to the Jordan-Israel armistice line.

FOUR FLAGS

TODAY, at the southern entrance to the Suez Canal as the 1,592-ton tramp freighter Maria Vittoria, carrying the flags of four countries, waited for permission to go through the waterway.

The vessel is of Italian origin, owned by a Greek firm with head offices in Britain and chartered by a Panama firm. The skipper did not specify which flag the ship would fly.

The vessel's British flag was hauled down as she approached the canal.

Skulduggery Charged by CCFer Over Sheep Shot Down by Vet

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Kenneth could also produce ear tags as farm without finding any positive trace of the disease. However, in January, 1956, there was evidence of one sheep having the disease. It was decided to destroy the flock after removal of certain parts of the bodies for research into "the mysterious disease."

"On February 27, 1956, the slaughter started and on March 2, it was completed," Dr. Wells said.

All through the slaughter period there was close scrutiny to identify each sheep destroyed.

Following Dr. Wells' evidence, Tom Goode (L-Burnaby-Richmond) demanded that Mr. McCullough say why he had believed the rumors which he repeated in the Commons.

Mr. McCullough replied that when a member of Parliament hears a rumor, it was up to him to have that rumor cleared up. It was neither fair nor necessary for him to have to substantiate the rumors.

Adams' Mistrial Plea Ruled Out

Judge Rejects 2-Hour Submission
By Defence in Eastbourne Murder Case

LONDON (Reuters)—The judge today refused to stop the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams, ruling out a defence submission that the prosecution had failed to establish a case.

Judge Sir Patrick Devlin rejected a long argument by defence counsel Geoffrey Lawrence that the defence had no case to answer following evidence by the prosecution's 19 witnesses. He told Lawrence: "I have considered most carefully your submission on the evidence but my conclusion is it does give rise to questions which can only be properly determined by . . . the jury."

The defendant listened intently with his head cocked while his lawyer made a seven-and-a-half-hour appeal which the judge rejected even before he had finished.

Lawrence, then prepared to present his case, announcing he would not put the defendant into the witness box.

Adams, 58, is charged with the murder by overdoses of drugs of a patient, Mrs. Edith Morrell, 81, a wealthy widow who died in the seaside resort of Eastbourne six years ago. The prosecution has claimed the motive was greed for possessions the doctor believed he would inherit.

ADDITIONAL WITNESS

At the start of today's proceedings the Crown counsel, who finished his case Tuesday, asked for an additional witness to be called—Dr. Francis Camps, government pathologist. The witness was asked technical questions about the formalities of cremation and post-mortem examinations.

Lawrence stressed that the burden of making out a charge of murder was always upon the prosecution. "What has to be disclosed by the case for the prosecution is, in my submission, a real case of murder and not some shadowy adumbration of possibility," the counsel said.

The charge of murdering Mrs. Morrell involved the

Ontario Trial Of Sunday News Faces Delay

TORONTO (CP)—Magistrate Thomas S. Elmore today adjourned until April 17 hearing of charges under the Lord's Day Act against three Toronto daily newspapers, the CBC and radio station CKYEY.

The adjournment was made at the suggestion of Crown Counsel C. F. H. Carson, who proposed a definite date for hearing of the charges be fixed at that time.

Facing charges of violating the act are the Toronto Telegram, The Toronto Star and the Globe and Mail, as well as the CBC and the Toronto Broadcasting Company Ltd., operators of station CKYEY.

Mr. Carson said counsel for the Telegram and the Star had informed him it would be impossible or inconvenient to proceed with the hearing at this time.

"In light of this, I informed them and other counsel that we would not proceed with the trials this morning but would ask that they stand over for two weeks," Mr. Carson said.

Then counsel for the Telegram had told him that he would be unable to proceed on April 17 and had suggested adjournment to a later date or to April 17 when a trial date would be fixed.

Magistrate Elmore asked if this was satisfactory to all counsel. Walter Williston, representing the CBC, said that it was possible that on April 17 he might ask a longer adjournment because of another motion he had before the courts.

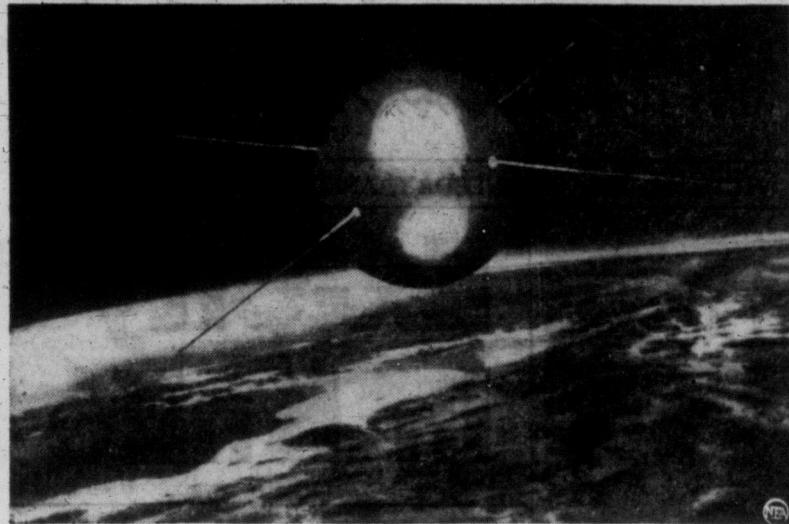

Mr. Williston Monday submitted a motion to the attorney-general's department asking that the magistrate be prohibited from hearing the charge against the CBC. The motion said the CBC is an agent of the Crown and thus not subject to the Lord's Day Act because the act does not specifically name it.

That motion will be heard in Ontario Supreme Court April 16.

Although there are over 400 known chemicals that will cause cancer in animals or in humans, scientists still do not know how these agents work.

18 YEARS OF TRYING WITH NO RESULTS

Spiritualist Ends Famous Pact To Break Life-Death Barrier

DETROIT (AP)—One of the last members of a 107-year-old pact aimed at communicating with the dead says it is about time to give up.

"I've been at this for 18 years and nothing has come of it," Charles D. Noble said. "And I think I'll let it die with me."

Noble will keep trying to make contact with his deceased friends—a magician, H. Ward Thurston, lawyer Clarence Darrow and explorer Carver Wells—until he joins them in death.

But he says he will not name a "successor" to himself in the pact to try to communicate with his spirit.

The strange agreement to break the barrier between life and death, or prove it could not be done, was formed in 1850 by two magicians, Conte and Herrman the Great.

Although skeptical, they agreed the survivor of each anniversary of the other's death would hold an object associated with the deceased. The spirit of the dead man was supposed to knock the object from his hand.

The pact also obligated the surviving member to name one or two successors. Noble, a Detroit salesman of 65 who dabbles in magic as a hobby, was brought into the pact by Tiflorn, a bohemian friend.

The only other surviving member of the pact is Harry. Ghader Dad and two other bandits were killed Monday in a skirmish with a posse of loyal

Fulton Charges Govt. Changes Power Policy

(From Times News Services)

The federal government has shown a "complete reversal of policy" in proposing assistance in the development of provincial hydro-power projects, Progressive Conservative Davie Fulton said Tuesday night.

The member for Kamloops said in the budget debate that the reversal was "dictated by the approach of an election."

A year ago, the government had voted down a Progressive Conservative proposal calling for federal assistance to provinces who request it to build hydro-electric power projects.

Now it was changing its thinking, as indicated by Fisheries Minister Sinclair's recent announcement in Vancouver.

Mr. Sinclair, said last week, that the federal government would be prepared to assist the

CCF Whip Hits at Pension Increases

CCF whip Stanley Knowles accused the Liberal government of playing "despicable tricks" on Canada's needy and blind pensioners.

By not adjusting pension increases with higher permissible incomes, he said, the government each month will take back $1 out of every $6 pension increase paid to married recipients of old age assistance and blindness allowances.

"How could a government stoop so low?" asked the member for Winnipeg North Centre.

Mr. Knowles said his party would support various increases in social security payments, when enabling legislation comes before the House. But, the budget proposals, in effect, did not authorize the increases so

Abandon CBC Networks, Urges Low

Abandonment of the CBC's two radio networks for economy and efficiency was proposed by Social Credit Leader Mr. Low.

He suggested that CBC radio should produce a few high-quality programs privately for broadcast by private stations on a contractual basis.

The CBC now maintains costly coast-to-coast networks operating more than 18 hours daily, seven days, a week. Abandonment of these networks would save millions of dollars a year.

The CBC operates the Trans-Canada network, consisting entirely of CBC stations, and the Dominion network made up of one CBC station—CJBC in Toronto—and 50 private stations. The Fowler royal commission, on broadcasting recommended abandonment of the Dominion network.

Outside the House, Mr. Low said the CBC programs could be transmitted to private radio stations by some form of inexpensive network. Or, private stations could operate their own network.

"I see no earthly use at all of the CBC owning and operating stations from coast to coast for the purpose of broadcasting."

Ike Says 'Rot' To Rumors Of Resignation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today reports he will resign before the end of his second term and turn his duties over to Vice-President Richard Nixon are the worst rot he has heard since taking office.

A reporter told Eisenhower at his press conference there have been reports and rumors that he might step out of the presidency when world conditions permit and have Nixon take over.

Eisenhower said he had no idea where the reports originated.

The president declared that there is no reason for anyone to doubt his basic integrity and honesty, and that he fully intends to serve out his elected term of office.

He also was asked to comment on his speedy trip to Gettysburg, Pa., last Friday. The car was said to have hit 75 miles an hour in a 55-mile-an-hour limit area.

Eisenhower said he was engaged in a conference at the time and had no idea of the limousine's speed. He said he has issued orders that his limousine is never to exceed the speed limit.

Queen Mary 'Blacklist' Lifted by U.K. Dockers

The ban was imposed two weeks ago in support of striking shipyard workers who claimed the 81,000-ton Cunard liner broke their strike by sailing for New York before completion of winter overhaul.

A Southampton union leader today announced the ban lifted. The shipyard strike was called off Tuesday.

The Mary is docked across the channel in Cherbourg, France, where it terminated its voyage from New York Monday instead of finishing the trip in its home birth at Southampton.

Democrats Take Senate Control; Yarborough Elected Over Dies

DALLAS, Texas (AP)—Democrats nailed down control of the United States Senate with a victory by Ralph Yarborough over 18 other senatorial candidates in a by-election Tuesday.

Yarborough, 53, came back from four previous election defeats to swamp another Democrat, the nationally known representative Martin Dies of un-American activities committee fame, and the Republican hopeful, Thad Hutcheson, his only close opponents.

Republicans had high hopes of winning Hutcheson and taking over Senate leadership. The Democrats have a paper-thin 49-47 edge there now, and a Republican victory would have created a 48-48 tie.

Republicans had said they would reorganize the Senate, with Vice-President Richard Nixon's tie-breaking vote, if Hutcheson won. That would have given them committee chairmanships.

Yarborough had 310,842 votes

The Battle of the Banks

IT IS NOT SURPRISING THAT Mr. Diefenbaker should continue to attack the Bank of Canada and its governor, Mr. J. E. Coyne, for keeping interest rates high. That is the only important issue Mr. Diefenbaker has been able to raise in the national election campaign so far (at the expense of joining the Conservative Party to the philosophy of Premier Bennett.)

But it is surprising and regrettable that Mr. Harris, perhaps in a moment of weakness, should repudiate out of hand an important proposal advocated by Mr. Coyne for the improvement of the private banking system.

Mr. Coyne proposes, in brief, that the savings accounts of the private banks be set aside for long-term investment, such as housing, and their current accounts used to provide ordinary day-to-day business credit.

There is nothing very remarkable about this suggestion (and it is no more than a suggestion on Mr. Coyne's part.) Indeed, the private banks have adopted it in part already by agreeing to set aside $150 millions out of these savings accounts this year for housing loans. Yet the private banks have bitterly denounced Mr. Coyne's idea and Mr. Diefenbaker has rushed to their defense, almost automatically.

At first Mr. Harris acted wisely. He said he had no intention of recommending Mr. Coyne's proposal to the House of Commons at the present session. No one, certainly not Mr. Coyne, expected that he would do so. Obviously such a fundamental change in our banking system would require long study by the Government and by the banking committee of Parliament.

Mr. Coyne said in his annual report that "the possibility of a gradual approach" to this change "would seem to be worthy of study and discussion." That was all.

Despite this cautious language, the private banks and Mr. Diefenbaker seemed to think that Mr. Coyne was determined to uproot the whole banking system overnight.

> On second thoughts, Mr. Harris took alarm. He hastily assured Parliament that he would not recommend Mr. Coyne's suggestion to Parliament now, after the election or any time. The governor of the Government's own bank was slapped down.

What impelled Mr. Harris to this extraordinary change of front we do not know, and no layman, of course, is equipped to judge Mr. Coyne's suggestion. It is impossible to believe, however, that a Government busy with Parliament and an election campaign has had time to consider Mr. Coyne's annual report in detail.

Its reference to the private banking system has been rejected without adequate study, evidently for political rather than economic reasons. The Government clearly was alarmed by the clamor of the private banks and their self-appointed champion, Mr. Diefenbaker.

A decision made in temporary panic is not likely to stand. Once the election is over and the problems of banking are no longer involved in political manoeuvres, a new House of Commons probably will wish to study them at leisure.

That was all Mr. Coyne asked. And assuredly any plan which would give new stability to the flow of capital into long-term investments—the problem behind the present inflation—should merit the most careful inquiry, especially when it comes from a banker as able as Mr. Coyne.

Wharf for Sidney

DR. F. T. FAIREY'S ANNOUNCEMENT of Federal Government's willingness to spend $500,000 on harbor development at Sidney brings promise of a faster transport system between the lower Island and the mainland.

While immediate prospects from such a development are concerned with the Sidney-Anacortes run, the hopes of an all-Canadian route would be encouraged by it.

For several years the Victoria Chamber of Commerce has interested itself in efforts to provide faster and more efficient water transport between the capital and Vancouver. This concern has arisen from the amount of traffic, passenger and freight, now going by way of Nanaimo and entailing the long road trip at this end.

Prospects of a short water haul between the Sidney area and the lower mainland would be vastly enhanced if adequate docking facilities were established at the tip of the Saanich peninsula. It would still be necessary to choose a satisfactory mainland terminal. But even if the vessels went into Vancouver, the travelling time to and from Victoria would be greatly reduced.

The problem of acquiring suitable vessels to meet both freight and passenger needs should not be insurmountable. Certainly it was not when craft were designed for the Vancouver-Nanaimo run.

The Government's statement is heartening. If it produces a terminal for ferry service with the B.C. mainland, it will provide a delivery point for passengers and goods far closer to the bulk of Vancouver Island population than Nanaimo.

Philippines and Western Course

HOW THE PEOPLE OF THE Philippines go about replacing their late president, Raymond Magsaysay, is their own business. What they do in this respect could have major repercussions throughout the world.

Under Magsaysay, the Philippines have been democratic, pro-western and progressively devoted to the type of reform best calculated to offset the infiltration of communism.

Magsaysay had subdued the communist "huk" bandits, and had given the Filipinos what the communists could only promise them—land, schools and protection against injustice.

In his last address before the plane crash claimed his life, he had laid great emphasis on the need for active resistance to communism and to neutralism. Neutralism, he said, was anti-Filipino. The country had no need for fence-sitters in the struggle to preserve its way of life. And while he reiterated a plea for positive nationalism, he added that "one need not be anti-American or anti-foreign in order to be resoundingly pro-Filipino."

'The Air Is Delicate'

MRS. JACK HAWTHORNE, general manager of a car rental agency here, has won friends and influenced people for Victoria by what she has carried around in bottles.

Mr. Hawthorne used glass containers to transport the scent of lavender from our gardens to potential convention delegates in different parts of Canada. The whiff was wholly seductive, according to report. Strangers caught it and want to come to Victoria.

With suitable modern variations and packaging methods Mr. Hawthorne has adapted Banquo's words, "heaven's breath smells woefully here" as an olfactory magnet.

In the months ahead we hope and expect to see convention organizers arriving in town, noses lifted in the posture of bird dogs.

Let there be lots of bottles filled with the perfume of lavender to greet them. Let their hotel rooms be air-conditioned with it. And let the hotel windows be kept close when the breeze wafts from the Inner Harbor at low tide, or when talk of a rendering plant in Victoria West blows about town.

What the Traffic Will Bear

THE STORY goes that at a county fair the professional strong man was demonstrating the power of his hands. He took a lemon, squeezed it in his vast palms, and then challenged anyone in the crowd to get one more drop out of it. Nobody moved at first, but finally a small, squatly man clambered up on the platform and offered to accept the challenge. The crowd guffawed and jeered, but the little man took the challenge, began to squeeze, and produced not one, but three drops. "How in the world did you do it?" asked the strongman. "Nothing to it," said the little fellow. "I'm a tax collector."

It isn't much of a story but does illustrate a principle that is increasingly used these days. It's the principle of squeezing the lemon dry—and the lemon in most cases is not citrus but civilian. It's "John Q. Public," the average man, "the man in the street," and all the other names given to the great mass of mankind plugging along in the ruck.

One of the virtues of a free market is that the lemon has a choice. Prices will go up and up, the lemon will be squeezed until a point of no returns is reached. The buyer has the freedom to stop buying, and just under that point is where the price will normally be set. But I suppose it's hardly surprising that the spirit of our era should be to strain people to the breaking point. The old days of the free bonus have apparently gone forever. The days when you got a free lunch with your beer, a couple of pounds of free liver when you bought steak, a free penknife when you bought boy's suit—those real gifts are no more.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By CHARLES LYNCH

U.S. Policy Shaping Up

NEW YORK—Israel's decision to withdraw her troops from the Gaza and Aqaba areas has caused a good many people here to look with new respect upon the Middle East policy of the United States government.

Until now, this policy has seemed to many people to be a patchwork quilt, made up by Mr. Dulles as he rolled along, and smelling heavily of oil. But now it seems that a pattern is emerging, and as of this moment there is a great deal of respect for United States strategy.

Among the nations seeming to share that respect is the United Kingdom, which only four months ago was diametrically opposed to the United States on all important attitudes in the Middle East.

Evidence that the rift between Great Britain and the United States over Mid-East policy has narrowed considerably since the open break of last November was seen in the latest speech before the General Assembly by Commander Allan Noble, Her Majesty's minister of state for foreign affairs.

His speech was important because of Britain's heavy stakes in world shipping and Middle Eastern oil, and because it was designed to bolster Israel's assumptions about the administration of the Gaza Strip and freedom of navigation into the Gulf of Aqaba.

In aligning herself behind Washington's policy in the Israeli-Egyptian crisis, Britain evidently believes this policy is moving in such a way that Col. Nasser of Egypt will be isolated and forced to terms.

This applies not only to the questions of Gaza and Aqaba, but to the even more vital issue of the reopening of the Suez Canal.

And Nasser will feel other pressures as well, for the United States has been wooing Egypt's neighbors, Arab and otherwise, and signs are emerging that some of this spadework may be succeeding.

Col. Nasser could wind up with only Jordan and Syria as close allies, and with only

Lynch

Russia as a bulwark among the great powers. He is not likely to relish that prospect, and already there are reports that he would like to make a start on renewing diplomatic relations with the United Kingdom.

If those reports are true, then Nasser must have been dismayed by Commander Noble's speech in the assembly, expressing Britain's support for two things Israel wants—international administration and control of Gaza, and freedom of navigation through the Straits of Tiran into the Gulf of Aqaba.

Commander Noble said the Straits of Tiran must be regarded as an international waterway, through which the vessels of all nations have a right of passage. He added that His Majesty's government will assert this right on behalf of all British shipping, and would be prepared to join with others to secure general recognition of this right.

As for the Gaza Strip, Commander Noble said the assumptions and expectations of Israel are reasonable, and should present no difficulties. He expressed the hope that the United Nations would continue to exercise its responsibilities in the Gaza Strip without difficulties being raised from any side.

SWITCH FROM DEFENSIVE

In saying all this, Commander Noble was voicing a change in Britain's attitude in the Middle East debate—a switch from the defensive posture she has held almost since last November, to a positive desire to contribute to future events. He was expressing faith in the role to be played by the United Nations itself in the Middle East.

In aligning herself beside the United States in this way, Britain is of course rejoining the game of power politics in the Middle East. High-sounding phrases are difficult to about any nation's policies in that area, nor is this likely to change in the near future.

If Col. Nasser wants to howl about power politics, it will be pointed out to him that he started the latest sequence of Middle East events with his seizure of the Suez Canal; that he has done his utmost to rally Arab and Asian support for Egypt's position; that he continues to use the canal as a pawn in the bargaining game.

Shadow to the Screen

LONDON—Two things that puzzle the public about the moviemakers are (a) why when they are transferring a book to the screen they invariably make drastic changes for no apparent reason, and (b) why so much time and money is wasted on what would seem to be the relatively simple operation of bringing a story to the screen. I have just had first-hand insight into both of these facets of film-making.

In the last week or so the company making a film of my novel, "Follow a Shadow," has had me in for three script conferences. For one accustomed to working on newspapers and periodicals, these have been an eyeopener.

Reyburn On a newspaper when the handling of a big news story is being planned or a magazine when a feature series is mapped out, the people concerned get down to business right away. But in movies that's not the way to go about things.

The initial script conference was held in the palatial office of Mr. G., chief of the story department. Also present were Mr. N., the producer, and several other people whose precise reason for being there I never did discover.

First thing, of course, was to get the cigars out. In the movie world it seems that you can't carry on any sort of discussion except through a haze of cigar smoke. To a film man, the cigar is a symbol of profound thought.

When someone asks you a question which completely stumps you, all you need do is take it out of your mouth, toy with it while contemplating the smoke lazily rising from it, say "Well, yes and no," and you have given the impression of a great mind at work.

At this first conference a grand total of nothing was achieved. But they all seemed to enjoy it, especially the cigars. All left the room convinced the book was going to make a great movie.

The second conference gave me an inkling why changes are made. In the book the heroine, a married woman, has a love affair. Out. If you want to get the censor's certificate for general exhibition, no love affairs. "But it's the main point of the whole book," he said.

"We'll get around it," said Mr. G.

Then someone asked if the book had been checked for libel. It hadn't, so the conference was scrubbed while a copy was sent to the company's lawyer for his opinion.

The third conference was devoted to a discussion on libel and here I learned a reason why drastic changes are often made in the film version of a book. Although a book might be published without anyone suing the publishers for libel, that doesn't mean to say that the moviemakers will not be sued for filming the same story.

People who feel they have been libeled in a book often hold back until a film version is made, feeling they can get more money out of a film company than a publisher.

So much for the first three script conferences. Not a line of the script on paper yet. But what's the hurry? There's the rest of the year untouched.

YESTERDAY'S WEATHER RECORDS

A single lump sum of money received by a taxpayer can make the tax impost unusually heavy and the Income Tax Act allows some alleviation in some of these cases.

Examples of such payments are lump sums paid to employees on retirement, withdrawal from pension schemes, and payments made as death benefits.

In Victoria where there are many hundreds of women civil servants the case can often arise that a girl withdrawing her superannuation payments in one lump sum in preparation for marriage. This is Ottawa's method of alleviating hardship caused by lump sum payments.

The recipient may have considerable other income in the year of receiving a lump sum payment. The amount of the lump sum payment can be taken into income in the year of receipt or can be excluded from current taxable income and tax paid on the lump sum payment at a special rate.

The special rate is worked as follows: Take the income for each of the three previous years and add them together. Then take the total income tax paid for each of these three previous years. This total will be, say 6 per cent or 8 per cent of the total income.

This is the basis for the calculation.

Thus, if the sum received is $1,000 and the average percentage of tax for the three previous years is 6 per cent, the taxpayer owes $60 in income tax.

If you have problems in making the calculation consult the advice service offered by the income tax department at the Belmont Building.

Closed-In Garbage Wharf Under Study

New Structure at Foot of Swift Street May Replace Original Garballa Road Plan

Erection of a new closed-in garbage wharf on the site of the present wharf at the foot of Swift Street is under consideration by city public works committee.

Philip Tests Sports Car At 100 M.P.H.

LINDLEY, England (AP) — Prince Philip risked his neck at 100 miles an hour Tuesday at the wheel of a new British sports car.

The Prince watched new cars being tested on a banked racing circuit at the Motor Industry Research Association establishment. He stood at the side of the high speed track as cars flashed around at 150 m.p.h.

Then he climbed in beside Norman Dewis, chief test pilot for Jaguar. They touched 120 m.p.h. with Dewis driving. Prince Philip then took the wheel and with Dewis as a passenger reached 100 miles an hour.

Afterwards Dewis said: "The Prince drove very well. He seemed thoroughly to enjoy driving round the banking."

The Prince then piloted his own aircraft back to London.

The committee recently settled on a $205,000 rehabilitation plan for the sea-dumping disposal system with a new wharf to be built at Garballa Road city yards.

IN POOR SHAPE

Later, Ald. M. H. Mooney asked delay on the project while a new plan was studied.

Tuesday, city engineer James Garnett said rebuilding of the old wharf, now in a poor state of repair, is being investigated. He added that mill owners in the Garballa yard area objected to a new wharf in that location as they would be required to observe the regulations which state the narrow channel should be kept clear of log booms.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Tuesday: Herbert D. Ingall, 420 Government, $35 and licence suspension for careless driving.

Harvey Fong, 670 Herald, $25 for speeding over 30.

Robert A. Collier, 1336 Denman, $35 for careless driving, plus one-month licence suspension except for business purposes.

James H. Gorst, 325 Davida, $20 for failing to display his chauffeur's licence.

ISLAND DIGEST

M&B Tree Cutting To Equal Growth

All Company's Land Now Operated On Tree Farm Basis, Says Official

CHEMAINUS — All land owned by MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd., some million and a quarter acres, now is being operated on a tree farm basis, according to Ian Mahood, manager of the company's forestry operations.

Speaking at a supervisory meeting here to explain the mechanics of the 268,000-acre Harmanac Tree Farm, which includes all the company's eastern district holdings, he said that "under our new program we will cut exactly as much as we grow."

At present the company does not depend entirely on its own land for timber, he said.

BUY HALF

"We are buying about half of what we cut each year from small operators up and down the coast," he said. "In this way the company assists others to operate on a sustained yield basis."

Two main phases of the new program of balancing cut with yield are to reforest logged areas to insure a future supply of timber, and to assist logging and sawmill operations in getting the most from their harvest and making the best use of raw materials."

Irving Barber, forester in charge of the eastern district, said 55 per cent of the Harmanac farm is covered by mature timber, 12 per cent is lying idle and unplanted, and the remainder bears timber of from one to 80 years of age.

Main objective in the current program, he said, is to close the gap between mature timber and new second growth, thus achieving sustained yield and a steady cut.

Hazards, he said, are the continued development of urban areas that encroach on the farm, fires, and insect pests.

Part of Magistrate's Estate Sought in Court by Children

A son and daughter of the late Magistrate Arthur Tisdall of Duncan petitioned Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane in Supreme Court Tuesday to provide them with a portion of their father's estate.

Magistrate Tisdall, who died in Victoria on Nov. 16, 1955, bequeathed his entire estate of $36,123 to his wife.

The petitioners are Arthur George Halcyone Tisdall, salesman, and Helen Margaret Curtis, who have launched the proceedings under the Testator's Family Maintenance Act. Under the act a judge may alter certain provisions of a will.

Mrs. Tisdall is their stepmother. Magistrate Tisdall's first wife died.

Employment opportunities were most prevalent in the construction industry, and logging firms gradually called back crews, some of them on a part-time basis.

Shortages in construction trades, reported R. S. Robinson, manager of the Duncan NES office, have necessitated trade union recruitments outside the Cowichan area.

District sawmills continue steady production with some increased hiring. Some of these employers are still drawing on seniority lists from previous layoffs to cover regular turnover requirements.

1,600 AT MILL
Construction activity at B.C. Forest Products' pulp mill at Crofton proceeds apace, with about 1,600 on the job, a decline of about 100 from a month ago. As building work nears completion other tradesmen, such as millwrights, electricians and pipefitters, increase in numbers.

There are also about 80 men working on the water pipeline which will supply the pulp mill from the Cowichan River at Duncan. The line will be laid in October, if construction proceeds on schedule.

Retail trade in the area has shown some improvement since the last reporting period, said Mr. Robinson. This is due primarily to the resumption of work by the seasonally unemployed of the district, he said.

Stolen Safes Found At Campbell River

CAMPBELL RIVER — Two safes stolen from local business firms recently have been found by the RCMP.

One of them, taken from Central Builders last Saturday night, was found near the John Hart head pond by an employee of the firm who was searching with the police.

The other, taken from the Simpsons-Sears order office Feb. 17, was found in brush close to the forestry nursery near Quinsam River.

40,000 Boost On Island, Census Shows

Population of Vancouver Island increased by more than 40,000 persons between 1951 and 1956, census day of Canada statistics showed today.

The jump was from 215,003 in 1951 to 256,355 last year, comparing favorably with population increases in the nine other population divisions in British Columbia.

NANAIMO WAY UP

The company has developed a diversified business employing 9,000 persons and is selling products in 32 countries, he said.

"We have a diversified forest with many different species and types of trees," he said. "For these reasons we had to develop a diversified forestry program to make the best use of our raw materials."

Irving Barber, forester in charge of the eastern district, said 55 per cent of the Harmanac farm is covered by mature timber, 12 per cent is lying idle and unplanted, and the remainder bears timber of from one to 80 years of age.

Main objective in the current program, he said, is to close the gap between mature timber and new second growth, thus achieving sustained yield and a steady cut.

Hazards, he said, are the continued development of urban areas that encroach on the farm, fires, and insect pests.

Since its beginning in 1938 the Canadian Cancer Society has spent more than $3,600,000 on cancer research.

Sooke Girl to Enter City Queen Contest

SOOKE — A Sooke girl will be sponsored by the Community Association in Victoria's May Queen contest, association president Eric Butler announced at the group's regular meeting here.

Girls between 18 and 22 years of age will be eligible, he said.

Preparations for a three-day celebration to include All-Sooke Day are underway, he said.

Lumber for a new grandstand on Sooke River flats is on hand and volunteer labor will be used.

FOOT RACE

If had been proposed to start the celebrations July 11 with a running race from Victoria to Sooke, but it was announced

Change in Park Administration Set at Nanaimo

NANAIMO (CP) — Mayor Pete Maffeo announced Monday the Nanaimo Parks Board will be dissolved Sept. 30 and a parks commission appointed to have control of all recreational activities including parks, playgrounds, boulevards and the Civic Arena.

The recreation superintendent, Alfred Kristiansen, and arenas manager Bill Oliver will be replaced on that date by a parks and recreation manager.

ECONOMIZE

The move is intended to eliminate overlapping and improve economy. It follows closely passage of the new Municipal Act which provides for the dissolution of existing parks boards and the appointment of parks commissions.

Hon. Earle C. Westwood, minister of recreation and conservation, proposed the move a year ago when he was mayor of Nanaimo.

VMD Furnace Designed to Ease Stress

A stress relieving furnace, largest west of Ontario, is nearing completion at Victoria Machinery Depot's Bay Street plant, and will be ready for use in three to four weeks.

The furnace, built at a cost of approximately $50,000, will be the only one on Vancouver Island.

It is used to produce uniform strength throughout welded steel industrial units, such as balers for pulp mills, cracking and reduction units for oil refineries.

Fifty feet long, 16 feet high and 16 feet wide, the furnace will be fired by 24 electrically controlled oil burners to produce temperatures up to 1,200 degrees Fahrenheit. Welded units will be "baked" in the furnace under gradually increasing temperatures for a controlled length of time; then the temperature is lowered with equal gradualness.

The resulting uniformity of strength removes danger of breakdowns at stress points, such as welded joints.

Construction of the furnace is another step in VMD's effort to go all out for industrial contracts. Harold Husband, president, said today:

"We must have it to be in that type of business," he said.

Victoria Woman Gets Commission In RCAF Branch

Two members of 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, RCAF (Aux.) were promoted from non-commissioned officers to flying officers at a ceremony in RCAF Urban Centre Monday. Given commissions were WO2 Stanley Horner, 34, Langford, and Sgt. Blanche Crowther, Victoria.

She becomes the first female fighter controller officer in any Canadian auxiliary squadron. In civil life Miss Crowther is employed by B.C. Telephone Co.

F/O Horner was one of the squadron's originals when it was formed six years ago and was radar maintenance superintendent when promoted. He becomes chief technical officer.

In civil life he is employed by the federal government at Pacific Naval Laboratory.

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Israeli government Tuesday announced the expulsion of a Czechoslovak attaché for "espionage activities." OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. D. C. MacPhail, Vancouver scientist and UBC graduate, has been named director of the National Research Council's mechanical engineering division, NRC's largest unit.

The 42-year-old aircraft expert, former assistant director of the NRC division, succeeds J. H. Parke, 66, of Toronto, who has retired after 27 years of council service.

Vertical Takeoff Plane Tested in U.K.

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng. (CP)—Britain's first vertical-takeoff research airplane, the Short, SC-1, made its first flight here Tuesday. The delta-winged plane used normal takeoff technique and was tested in forward flight: The plane is powered by five Rolls-Royce RB-108 turbo-jet engines. Four help the plane in its vertical takeoff and landing while the fifth powers the plane in flight.

The resulting uniformity of strength removes danger of breakdowns at stress points, such as welded joints.

Construction of the furnace is another step in VMD's effort to go all out for industrial contracts. Harold Husband, president, said today:

Full-Size Replica Of Mayflower Launched in Devon

BRIXTON, Eng. (Reuters)—Most of the population of this cliffside Devon port turned out Monday night to cheer the Mayflower II as it floated from drydock into the harbor.

The full-rigged sailing vessel, launched 2 weeks ago and fitted out in drydock, is a full-sized replica of the Pilgrim Fathers' ship.

The sturdy craft, a gift from Britain to the American people, will go through stability trials here later this week.

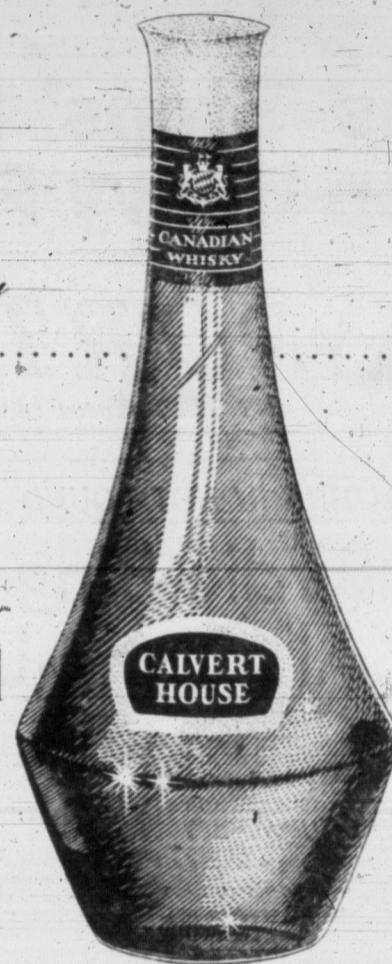

It is expected to sail April 15 for Plymouth, Mass., repeating the 1620 Atlantic crossing. The voyage will take from four to six weeks.

RANDALL BROTHERS TO RUN U.S. TRACK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert Randall of Vancouver said today he and his brother Jack will "definitely" take over the Meadows race track in Portland, Ore., this summer.

The Randalls represent a syndicate which has an option to buy the track, recently valued at $690,000.

THE COACH, THE MANAGER, THE PLAYER

Colin Kilburn, all three of him, took inventory of his hockey season Tuesday and found a heavy stock of satisfaction, pride, disappointment and promise.

The dynamic player, coach and manager of the Victoria Cougars found nothing he had to apologize for.

Kilburn was attending to final details of the recently-dismised season. While his duties as coach and player were stacked away, with the equipment when Cougars were eliminated from playoffs Saturday night, Kilburn still faced a small mountain of paper-work in his continuing capacity of general manager.

The usually bustling hockey office was quiet with only the occasional visit from a player, dropping in to say goodbye before leaving for home.

Speaking as the club's general manager, Kilburn said, "I think we can say we had a pretty fair season."

"Naturally, I was a little disappointed in the attendance but there were several factors causing the drop. There is the economic situation in the city; one has too much free money anymore. Then we had a fairly severe winter, and third, we made a bad guess on holding our alternate home games on Monday nights. It just wasn't the good night we thought it would be."

"As far as the entertainment calibre of our club was concerned, I think the fans showed they were behind our team. They treated our players well and were definitely warming up like old times towards the end of the season. Had we been able to beat the Royals and bring Seattle back here for the final, I am certain we would have had sell-outs."

"Also, I am disappointed financially. However, if Victoria was the only club that lost money, I would be alarmed. But the loss in revenue is a general thing around the league and I think the situation will right itself."

"The directors gave me 100 per cent co-operation and Lester Patsick was a tremendous help to me. He is just the greatest."

Then Kilburn, the coach, spoke up:

"At the beginning of the season, I promised our fans not necessarily a champion ship team but a free-skating crowd-pleaser. I'll rest my case on the home games our crowds saw."

"As for the players, I think that if we had had a couple of players who could have scored 10 goals for us in the first part of the season, we would have been crowding first place."

"Our goal-tending was outstanding all season: Pelletier had a great year. The defence was hot and cold, but they played great hockey in the latter part of the season and our goals-against average backs them up. I think our kids, Don Hamilton and Gordy Matheson, have a bright future."

"On the forward line, I think Dougie Anderson gave me the best season of his pro career. And he was the guy who gave me so many sleepless nights when he said he didn't want to come back for another season because he was too old. Gordy Haworth was a good find and Bruce Carmichael certainly found the range when we put him on left wing. Ray Powell was a great help and his broken arm in December was a terrific blow to us. I thought Wayne Brown had his best season as a Cougar and Doug Macauley had a good season, although I would like to see a little more weight on him."

"I think the brightest light on the club, though, was Don Chupka. I never lost faith in Chips but I kept him on the bench early in the season because he wouldn't strike back."

"I knew he could score goals but he wouldn't assert himself, not even in practice. Finally, he woke up and began to get fired up. When he got going, he carried our whole club. He has a terrific future in hockey."

"That bad road record of ours is just a puzzle. Still, I've found that on any hockey club, you always have a couple of players that you can just forget about on the road, no matter how good they are at home."

Here, Kilburn the player, took over:

"I, personally, didn't have one of my better seasons but I'm not getting any younger and the league is getting better. I was more of a tattletale around the league and that affected my play some what."

"I have no regrets at turning down that Boston offer. If I had taken it, I might not have been able to stick with the club more than a year or two and then I'd be looking for another job."

"Next year, I think I might like to try being manager-coach and just a 15th, part-time player, like Keith Allan at Seattle."

"Naturally, the future here hasn't been decided yet. That should be known in five or six weeks."

"I know there are a few people around the league who want my scalp but that's to be expected in my job."

"I like Victoria. I hope it likes me and my family."

New Westminster Bumps Americans

By The Canadian Press

The season's leaders in the Western Hockey League didn't do so brilliantly in the first games of the best-of-seven coast and prairie division finals Tuesday night.

Seattle Americans, who emerged atop the regular coast schedule with a commanding lead, went down to New Westminster Royals 4-2 while Edmonton Flyers checked fiercely and effectively to edge Brandon Regals 5-4.

The game produced a pair of fire balls—Jerry Melnyk of Edmonton and New Westminster's Max McNab.

McNAB STARS

At Seattle, McNab assisted on Ollie Dorohey's first goal, scored the second himself and assisted on the clincher.

Dorohey and McNab made the first period score 2-0 before Seattle tried to make it a game.

Gordy Sinclair and Eddie Dorohoy, Ollie's brother, tied the score little more than three minutes after the second period began.

Two minutes later, McNab and Jim Stecyk combined it for help Dennis Olson clinch it for New Westminster and Gord Fashoway added another.

Marcel Pelletier, Victoria Cougar goalie subbing in the Seattle nets for injured Emile Francis, stopped only 16 shots and was not up to his usual form.

Melnyk, a crowd-pleaser throughout at Edmonton, scored three times in a row. The other two goals were fired by Don Poile, Len Haley and Elliot Chorley scored two goals each for Brandon.

STRIKE FAST

The Regals landed the first blow less than three minutes after the opening face-off. Haley came in fast and slid the puck between goalies to Dennis Riggins' skates with a slow, sliding shot.

Poile replied within the minute while teammate Larry Hillman was in the penalty box. Then Chorley lofted a high one in from 30 feet that beat Riggins.

Melnyk turned the tide, skating from his blue line to pick out the top corner of the net at 12:41. He was back again at 19:25 to complete a passing relay from Chuck Holmes and Tom McCarthy.

Haley potted another high shot into Riggins' net in the second period for the third Brandon goal, which tied the game.

Cumby Burton sent a perfect pass 10 minutes later to Melnyk who fired it in from six feet for his third consecutive marker.

Poile's other goal halfway through the last period was screened by three men. Chorley scored with a hard, partially screened shot two minutes later.

Porter rallied in the second period, Lorne Davis tipped Ed Panagakos' pass into the Barons' net to tie the count and Willie Marshall gave the Barons a lead when he pounced on Dunc Fisher's rebound and scored.

Les Duff scored for the Barons at 2:51 in the final period when he took a short pass from Panagakos and rifled the puck into the Cleveland net.

The Barons rallied late to bear the Barons' lead when Cal Stearns soloed all the way from his own defence zone to score.

ROBERT STROM
two cheques each for $64,000.

STARTS NEW BID NEXT WEEK

Science Prodigy Hits TV Quiz for $128,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — Youthful science prodigy Robert Strom won his second $64,000 on a TV quiz show Tuesday night and will start out after a third next week.

The 10-year-old television whiz brought his winnings to $128,000 by putting his knowledge of physics, math, electricity and astronomical spectrometry to use in answering a four-part question.

Since program rules allow a contestant to try for four jacks, Strom can win as much as $256,000 on "the $64,000 question." Each time he wins $64,000, the win is outright and can not be prejudiced by future answers.

Cmdr. Edward Peary Stafford, a navy pilot from Washington, D.C., appeared briefly on the program to announce that he will try to answer his $64,000 question on the show next week. Stafford, who did not participate this week because of time limitations, is competing in the field of "American literature."

The only other contestant on the show, New York fashion editor Kate Lloyd, correctly answered a $2,000 first question on "men's fashions."

THE QUESTIONS

Strom cleaned up his $64,000 question by:

Announcing that the scientist who discovered that the volume of gas varies inversely to the pressure applied to it was Robert Boyle and naming Blaise Pascal as the physicist who discovered that pressure applied to a confined liquid is transmitted with undiminished force in every direction.

Describing the spectral characteristics of "A" stars as strong bluish hydrogen lines, of "G" stars as strong metallic diatomic lines, of "M" stars as strong reddish-titanium oxide bands.

Figuring on a plexiglass sheet in the isolation booth window that the impedance of an AC series circuit at 60 cycles with a resistance of 9 ohms, an inductive reactance of 27 ohms, and a capacitive reactance of 15 ohms is 15.

Calculating on the basis of the ohm's law formula, that eight amperes of current flow through the circuit considered in the previous question if 120 volts were applied and recalling that the law formula is I equals E over Z.

OTHER WINNERS

On the musical quiz, "Name That Tune," also over CBS-TV, another boy, Albert Stangler, 14, and former welterweight boxer Billy Graham won $10,000. Graham, of West Islip, N.Y., and Stangler, of New York City, appearing as a team, return next week to move on to the third round of the $25,000 "Golden Medley Marathon."

Graham and Stangler correctly named tunes from "Annie Get Your Gun" as "I've Got the Sun in the Mornin'," "They Say It's Wonderful," "You Can't Get a Man With a Gun," "I'm an Indian Too," and "Who Do You Love I Hope."

Postal Workers Honor Retired Vice-President

Retired regional vice-president of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association, Jack Hedley, Victoria, has been presented with a life membership in the association and with a gold wrist watch from the Victoria branch.

The presentation was made at the sixth annual banquet and dance Saturday in the Golden Slipper, by the present vice-president, Rick Otto, Vancouver.

Installed as officers of the local organization were George Somner, president, succeeding Joe Goy. Named vice-president was George Gower; secretary, William Jenner, and treasurer, Colin Moore.

About 75 persons attended.

Big Three's Tastes Simple — At $15 Plate

VANCOUVER (CP) — Henry Goldsmith of Vancouver, caterer to the recent Bermuda conference, said the tastes of Prime Minister Macmillan, President Eisenhower, and Prime Minister St. Laurent "were all very simple."

But he added: "You couldn't prepare one of those meals for less than $15 per person."

HASN'T WORKED YET

Time Running Out For 'Just Idle' Man

MIDDLESBROUGH, Eng. (Reuters)—Leslie Towell, 38, yawned, scratched himself lazily and contemplated going to work for the first time in his life.

He confounded a court Monday with the bland disclosure: "I haven't done a day's work in my life."

Later, relaxed in an armchair, Leslie said: "I am not one of the idle rich. Just idle."

The closest brush he had with outside work was during his six years in the army—but he explained that away.

"The army understood me and I understood the army. I had a very easy life—and because my desires were so easy to satisfy, I saved £500 ($1,400)."

Life went well for him on that nestegg, amplified by his mother's pension, he said. But since her death a year ago, he has run low of cash. He gets unemployment pay of £2 3s weekly.

In court, Leslie admitted stealing chocolate and oranges worth five shillings. He was fined £1 and ordered to pay 15 shillings in court costs.

"Everyone connected with the case seemed amazed that I don't work," he said later. "That's the trouble with civilization. Everyone's preoccupied with work."

"Asked how he will pay the court fine, Leslie shook his head. "I haven't got a ha'penny," he said. "There seems to be only one thing for it—work."

VETERAN LAWYER—Isaac Pitblado of Winnipeg, dean of active lawyers, recently celebrated his 90th birthday. An authority on freight rates and grain marketing, he still puts in a good day's work at his law office. (CP Photo)

C of C Group Bucks College Land Deal

A sub-committee formed by the Chamber of Commerce to assist in the development of Victoria College opposes a proposal that the college take over the Uplands golf course for future expansion.

The proposal was made by Judge J. B. Clearihue, chairman of the college council, who suggested the college take over the course, and the golf club take over 147 acres of the Beaver-Elk Lake watershed, owned by the city.

GREEN BELT

The chamber committee, headed by Capt. Ronald Newell, felt that the golf club lands should be preserved as a green belt area. The committee felt it would be undesirable to inter-fer with the recreational facilities of a large section of the public.

While opposed to the college land expansion scheme, the committee favored the institution of a four-year liberal arts course as soon as possible.

Victoria was ideally suited to a university, although not necessarily divorced from UBC, the committee said.

James Bay Group—The committee will hold their spring carnival Friday in the James Bay Community Hall at 7 p.m. There will be home-cooking, fish-ponds, a rummage sale and other attractions. Funds raised will go towards the "father and son" banquet to be held soon.

Third Victoria Group—At the regular meeting of the pack held last Friday Melvin and Mervin Nelson were presented with their three-year service star. Robert Campbell, Zandy Nicholson and John Phillips received their second-year star, first-year star going to Tom Boware and Alan Hurst. Barry English and Ricky Johnson received their Artist badges.

At the meeting of the group committee held Monday evening plans were made for the summer camps.

Victoria District Notes—Cub camp dates have been set for the summer; first period will be from July 15-20; second period, July 22-27. If sufficient leaders can be found, two other periods will be open, July 29, Aug. 3 and Aug. 5-10. Camp fees are to be $9 and $1 for canteen and crest.

Cubs will be accepted on the ratio of 10 boys for every leader from a group. Application forms are being sent to leaders this week.

Rover Scout Activities—Competitions for Rover Scouts were drawn up at the last meeting of the Thumb-Stick Council. An orienteering run will be held Sunday next. Crews are asked to meet at the junction of Prospect Lake and Munro Road at 9:30 a.m., and a fee of 25¢ is asked. Crews needing maps should contact district headquarters.

Plans for a competitive ramble will be forwarded to all crews by April 10. Two-man teams will be used in this competition. One of the requirements for this project is that at least 48 hours be spent in the area with at least one overnight camp. Cadboro Bay Sea Rovers have a new den and would like some used furniture.

Fish Plus Power Seen Possible By Means of Advanced Research

Strong possibility of "fish and power" through advanced research was forecast here Tuesday by Dr. H. V. Warren, professor of zoology at University of British Columbia and a leading authority on Fraser River development.

Before the Victoria Kiwanis Club, he pointed out benefits which would come from building the projected Moran dam.

Salmon would suffer heavily, he said, as the Fraser River spawns only 20 per cent of all B.C. salmon, and of this amount only 30 to 35 per cent get up the river as high as Moran, 20 miles north of Lillooet.

So only 6 to 7 per cent of B.C.'s salmon would have to be dealt with, he said.

The dam would be well above the spawning ground of pink or chum salmon. Coho mostly spawn there now.

Whether or not to proceed with the Moran dam, which would irrigate up to 190,000 acres and generate 30 billion kilowatts a year, was "one of the greatest challenges the province has ever faced."

Total kilowatt capacity in B.C. now from all power installations was seven billion, he said.

Advantages of the dam, as well as providing cheap future power—"If we want to grow, we have to jump and use it"—would be elimination of Fraser flooding as water would be backed up 17/2 miles, including plenty of storage space.

The Moran dam, he said, would be equal to Grand Coulee and two Boulder Dams rolled into one, and would also allow deep-sea vessels to proceed inland perhaps as far as Chilliwack.

He predicted a revenue in tourist dollars alone of $25,000,000 a year from persons coming to see the dams, figures based on visitors to the big U.S. power projects.

Choice of the Moran site was inevitable as location was only 120 miles from tidewater and energy could be delivered there "for less than three mills, nothing else could come close," he maintained.

Viruses are known to cause certain types of cancer in chickens and mice. Although no positive proof has yet been discovered, many scientists believe viruses or virus-like particles may be involved in human cancer.

SCRIPTURE 'EXCUSES' THEFT

VANCOUVER (CP) — James Clifford Adams, 49, charged with stealing a 20-pound Bible from St. James' Anglican Church here, based his defence on the scriptures. Asked where he got the Bible, Adams replied: "Ask and thou shalt receive." The charge was dismissed but he was ordered to stay away from church grounds.

CRASHES BORDER

Hungarian's Hand Heavy On Throttle

VIENNA (AP) — Driving his diesel-engine railway car at full speed, a Hungarian flashed past Red border guards here and asked for asylum in Austria, police reported.

The daring escape was staged by Laszlo Pal, a railroader who wanted to join his wife and child already in Austria.

Police said Pal told this story: While ordered to supervise repairs on the railway car, Pal started the engine, picked up speed and headed for the nearby border.

Rushing at 60 miles an hour, the car shot past the surprised border guards, while Pal ducked down to avoid any bullets.

At the border village of Wulkapoldorf in Austria, Pal was granted asylum and immediately joined his wife and child.

Makarios Won't Deal With Turks

MAHE, Seychelle Islands (AP) — Archbishop Makarios Tuesday rejected participation of Cyprus' Turkish minority in negotiations on the future of the Mediterranean island.

The Greek Orthodox Archbishop said in an interview he is ready to have rights of the island's Turkish population "internationally safeguarded," but insisted that talks can be held only between him and Britain.

Makarios has refused to enter negotiations with the British on the future of Cyprus because their order freeing him from internment specified he could not return to his home island.

Makarios is expected to leave the Seychelles in the Indian Ocean by ship about April 12. He will go first to Greece and then to London.

25% Wage Boost Asked for 400 At Empress Hotel

The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and Other Transport Workers (CLC) in Ottawa today asked for a 25 per cent across-the-board wage increase for 3,700 employees in 12 Canadian hotels, including 400 employees in the Empress.

Brotherhood secretary here, Robert Smeal, said the demand included all categories of employees, excepting management.

Bellhops now receive about $150 a month, chambermaids $164 and wages of laundry workers vary between $157 and $250.

The general adjustment committee for hotels also has asked for a company-paid health and welfare scheme, and adjustment in pay for craftsmen to bring their wages in line with similar workers in their districts.

Wages vary for hotel workers in different parts of Canada, with employees on this coast getting higher rates.

There is no master agreement covering all employees, so each hotel can negotiate with management separately, Mr. Smeal pointed out.

Negotiations have not yet opened.

AFTER 162 YEARS

U.K. Gives Up Gibraltar of South Atlantic

SIMONSTOWN, South Africa (Reuters)—Britain Tuesday handed over to South Africa the British naval base here known as "the Gibraltar of the south Atlantic."

The base, near Capetown, has been under British control for 162 years. The British seized it from the Dutch in 1795. Despite the handover, Britain will continue to enjoy facilities at the base and operate from it in the event of war.

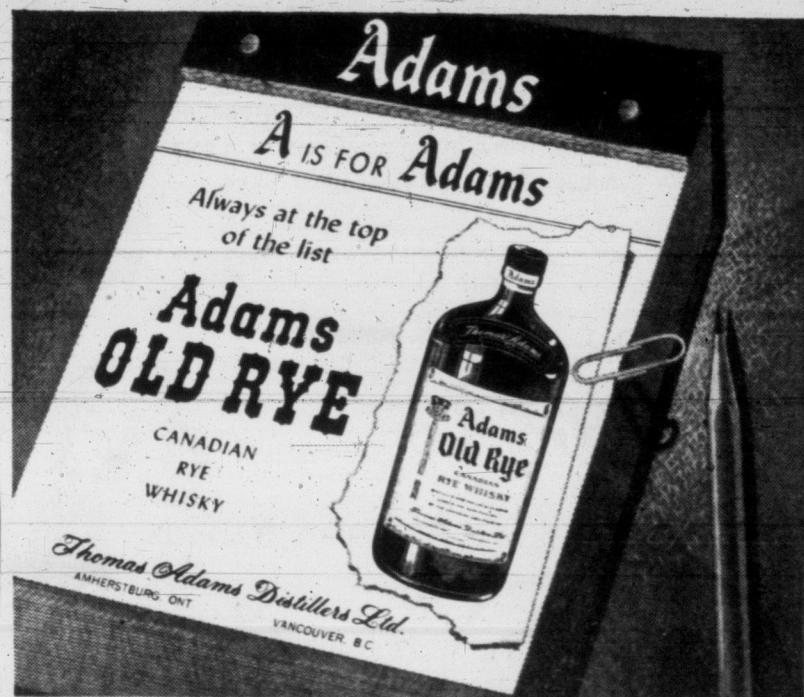

Britain agreed to South Africa's request for the return of the base at a conference in London two years ago.

Lord Selkirk, first lord of the admiralty, said the base is of military importance in guarding the Cape route around Africa in case the Suez Canal is cut off in a war.

$280,000 Increase In City Works Costs

Victoria faces a heavy increase in cost of public works this year unless council cuts deeper into 1957 estimates than works committee did Tuesday.

The committee lopped $22,684 from its proposed budget but left the final total $280,000 higher than last year's expenditures.

This would mean almost a four-mill tax boost for city property holders unless economies are made elsewhere, or revenues increase sharply.

Works chairman, Ald. M. H. Mooney, who in January urged a schedule of strict economy, conceded Tuesday:

"I think everyone expects an increase. How can it be any other way?"

The committee indicated it would fight further reduction in its budget when council meets on estimates next month.

It will be the first time that free-time CBC television has been used in a federal election campaign. At the last election, in 1953, it was decided not to use the then comparatively new medium.

17 Nazi SS Ordered Jewish Deaths, Says Camp Head

WROCLAW, Poland (Reuters)—

Sergius Bobko, former Nazi commandant of a concentration camp, pleaded not guilty Tuesday to charges he directed the slaughter of 1,000 Jews.

"He made himself notorious by his cruelty," the prosecution charged at the start of his trial as a war criminal. "He became a nightmare to the prisoners and the population."

Bobko claimed the deaths at Koldycezy camp were ordered by the Nazi SS.

Bobko recently was found working as a shoemaker under an assumed name.

MONTE ROBERTS

There is a very challenging article in the current SatEvePost.

It is all about a professor of medicine, a Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman, of the University of Chicago.

Like so many professors, Dr. Kleitman is a specialist, and what do you suppose he specializes in?

Sleep.

Please don't misunderstand. He does not specialize in sleeping. What he specializes in is the study of sleep.

And you can read all about Dr. Kleitman's studies in the above-mentioned article, which bears the title "so you think you need eight hours sleep?"

Naturally, I read the article, because I certainly do think I need eight hours sleep.

In fact, I often feel I need 24 hours sleep, and I DO mean consecutively.

But I felt duty bound to read the article, to find out if this scientific professor felt I need eight hours sleep.

Well, I found out that sleep sometimes sneaks up on you slowly, and sometimes it arrives with a rush—zoom, you're asleep.

I also found out that students of sleep feel it is slightly miraculous that more of the average lifetime isn't spent in sleep. Dr. Kleitman points out that man stays awake more than animals do, because man has added "wakefulness of choice" to "wakefulness of necessity."

In case you didn't know, wakefulness of necessity is the kind animals maintain to find food.

In other words, when they're hungry, animals wake up and eat so they can go back to sleep.

Man, on the other hand, often stays awake when his natural inclination is to go to sleep.

This is what Dr. Kleitman calls "wakefulness of choice," and what is more, the professor calls it as a "tremendous evolutionary development."

I would quarrel with Dr. Kleitman on whether or not this development is to be cheered or booed, but my purpose in reading the article was to find out whether or not I need eight hours sleep.

And do you know what?

I never did find out.

Before I got to that part of the article, I fell asleep.

About 150 employees of Island Freight Service Ltd. have won a 20-cent hourly wage increase over a two-year contract, provincial representative of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Workers, Robert Smeal, announced here Tuesday.

The men also obtained a health and welfare plan.

Boys have done close to $120 damage to street lights in the last week along the Ross Bay seawall, city engineer Kenneth Reid said today.

Explanation Asked On Holiday Pay Plan

Clarification of the new pro-Congress representative for provincial regulations concerning Vancouver Island, is studying holiday pay contributions by the matter.

Workers are being sought by the Victoria Labor Council.

An amendment which increases holiday pay to 4 from 2 per cent of earnings is generally thought to be discriminatory.

The amendment says the 4 per cent will go this year only to workers who became entitled to holidays on or after July 1, without any further qualifications.

Thus the amendment would mean a worker whose anniversary of employment falls on June 28 would receive one week or 2 per cent pay this year, while another worker, who becomes entitled to a holiday July 2, would have the full two weeks or 4 per cent pay.

Flexible Funds For Banks Called 'Must'

Hope that the so-called tight money policy might be eased by year's end was expressed here today by the general manager of the Bank of Montreal.

G. Arnold Hart, visiting branches here, said he foresees no overall slackening of the policy, but "hoped for some relief."

He objected to the Bank of Canada suggestion that charter banks should divide business between personal and commercial investment, with personal investment limited to long-term transactions, "We must have flexible funds," he said.

With rationed credit today, money must be spread around as much as possible, said the 44-year-old Toronto banker.

Personal borrowing is still allowed for "legitimate purposes" but is not allowed for speculative investment, he stated.

COMPLEMENTS OF BANKS

To the suggestion that restorative credit might drive many borrowers to finance companies, he said such companies were complements of the banks.

"Many persons may not be entitled to bank loans, so the finance companies charge a higher rate of interest commensurate with the risk."

Mr. Hart said before credit restrictions were clamped on, "we had all the ingredients for inflation," and there is still tremendous competition for the dollar.

Appointed general manager January 1 this year, he is travelling western Canada with other Bank of Montreal officials.

Parking Survey For Civil Servants

Deputy minister of works C. D. Campbell advised Victoria council today his department is conducting a search for more off-street parking facilities for employees of the Legislative Buildings.

Council recently passed a resolution halting all-day parking in residential areas near the buildings as of June 1, and asked the government to co-operate.

'Shock to Us All'—Black Ministers to Cut Holidays

Ralph Chetwynd, minister of agriculture in the provincial cabinet and a pioneer B.C. interior rancher, died today in Veterans' Hospital. He was 66.

Mr. Chetwynd was stricken with a heart attack March 11.

He was first elected to the legislature in the June, 1952 election and became a member of the first Social Credit cabinet, taking over the portfolios of fisheries, trade and industry and railways.

Mr. Chetwynd was re-elected from Cariboo riding in 1953 and 1956, when he became agriculture minister.

Illness forced him to miss most of the recent session of the legislature and his predecessor in the agriculture department, Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan, took over his duties in the House.

The minister became ill Feb. 25 and spent two weeks at home. He took his seat in the legislature March 7 and 8 but members noted he appeared tired.

Premier Bennett and most members of his cabinet were out of town today, holidaying after the session which concluded last Thursday.

They are expected to return for the funeral after arrangements made for extras for the weekend.

A fourth DC-3 will be added to the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle fleet to take care of extra flights.

Seattle service, also effective April 28, will be stepped up from three to five flights daily.

Flights from Vancouver to eastern Canada will be increased on the same date, from six to seven daily.

On June 1, for the first time TCA will operate a non-stop flight, Vancouver to Toronto, on a seven-hour flying time schedule, once daily.

On April 28, overseas flights from Montreal and Toronto to the U.K. will be boosted from seven to nine daily; on June 1, the number will be raised to 12 daily.

Under the new schedules, using regular service from Victoria and non-stop flights to Toronto and thence to London, a passenger can reach London in less than 24 hours.

Construction Up $500,000

Two single building projects have boosted first-quarter Saanich construction totals half a million dollars over the same three-month period in 1957.

The two projects — Queen Alexandra Solarium and Mount View High School addition, which together are worth $1,004,000 — brought last quarter's total to $2,054,890, or $464,970 more than the $1,569,920 for the same period a year ago.

Both permits were issued for the month of February.

Total permits for this quarter number 152, against 242 for the first three months of 1956, and the value of 86 permits for dwellings at $977,000 compares with $1,022,100 for 159 permits last year.

Turns Painting Hobby Into Career With Study at London Art Schools

By KITTY DIXON

If you've always yearned to have your portrait done in oils, here's your chance. A few hours' sitting in the studio of Miss Alice Carey and you'll have a prize your family will cherish for years.

If you are an older person with interesting character to your face, Miss Carey will be delighted. She loves to paint older people.

It doesn't take long. Miss Carey once painted a man in two days, because he was leaving town. But you'd better give her a week or two to do yours. She couldn't be expected to keep up such a pace.

She prefers to have six to 12 sittings, at two or three hours a sitting, when painting a full-size portrait, 20 by 24 inches.

Alice Carey recently returned to Victoria after studying painting for five years in London. She kept a full-time class schedule, first at Wimbledon School of Art, then at St. Martin's School of Art, Charing Cross Road.

ART PAYS OFF

During her student years she was selling, exhibiting and receiving commissions, which enabled her to continue.

She took a general painting course, with a strong leaning towards portraits and landscapes. The home she shares with her sister, Miss Ruth Carey, and her mother, Mrs. Katherine Carey, at 1693 Chandler Avenue, is full of her work.

To date, Miss Carey has done over 100 paintings. In her upstairs studio, Miss Carey is currently working on a painting of a Spanish Italian lad. It will be a colorful work, with bright serape over his shoulder, sombrero on his head and guitar in hand.

Miss Carey was born in Claremont, Alta., but spent most of her school years on Vancouver Island, attending Margaret Jenkins School, the old Seaton College and Strathcona Lodge School.

She once trained for physiotherapy, but the artist within her

Now a member of the Greater Victoria Art Gallery, Miss Carey still has paintings on exhibit in England. At present, there are four of her paintings at the United Society of Artists exhibition at the Royal British Artists' Gallery.

"There is great opportunity for artists in British Columbia," says

Miss Carey.

"So I am presently looking for a new studio, where I can paint, and perhaps do some private teaching in Victoria."

Plans were made for a rummage sale in the Orange Hall, Courtney Street, on April 13 at 9 a.m., and it was announced that donations can be left with Mrs. G. Burnett, 809 Burdett Avenue. Reports were given by Miss Jean Lorimer, historical society meeting, and Mrs. R. Nickerson, tea and cookies made for the senior citizens' recreation room.

It was announced that Mrs. B. Creech and Mrs. I. Brown will go as grand post officers to the grand post meeting in Nanaimo, April 26 and 27, and Mrs. A. Fourcres and Mrs. J. King as delegates. Mrs. M. Davies will be the past grand factor from Victoria Post.

Tea was served following the meeting. Next social gathering will be held at the home of Mrs. Pomeroy, 1157 Newport Avenue, on Thursday evening.

best man. Ushers were John and Hector Prudhomme.

A reception party was held at the home of the bride's mother, where a three-tier wedding cake flanked by white tapers in silver holders centred the bride's table. Pink rosebuds topped the cake and completed the table arrangement. Sam T. Beno proposed the toast to the bride.

A telegram from the bride's sister-in-law in White Horse, Y.T., was read.

The attractive, thin-haired bride, daughter of Mrs. H. Southwell, 1152 Burdett Avenue, was gowned in a full-length bridal dress of appliqued silk fashioned with a lace bodice, Italian neckline and long, lily-point sleeves. Her chapel veil of illusion net misted from a dainty circle of lily of the valley and pearls. Completing her ensemble, the bride wore her mother's blue sapphire pendant and carried a white prayer book topped with a white gardenia.

Mrs. Jim Lenting was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of turquoise taffeta complemented with a colonial bouquet of pink carnations and a headdress of pale pink feathers.

The groom, son of Mrs. Thelma Marcus of Rutherford, Calif., had the bride's younger brother, Frederick Southwell, as

Meet the Champion!

When you make and serve this beauty of a cake you'll find everyone enjoys the sweet orange glaze on the napfkuchen. It's delish served over the cut slices and attractive that way too.

ORANGE BLOSSOM NAPFKUCHEN

Napfkuchen: Two cups all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup batter, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon orange peel, 3 egg yolks, 3/4 cup milk, 1/2 cup dates, snipped, grated peel of 2 oranges (about 3 tablespoons), 3 egg whites, beaten, 1/2 cup unblanched almonds, slivered.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cream butter and sugar together, blend in vanilla; add well-beaten egg yolks. Blend in dry ingredients, adding alternately with milk. Add dates and grated orange peel. Fold in egg whites beaten stiff but not dry. Turn into well-greased, 1 1/2-quart fluted tube pan lined with slivered almonds. Bake in moderate oven (350°) for one hour. Cool in pan on rack for 10 minutes, turn out on plate. Cover with glaze.

Orange Glaze: Two cups chopped oranges and sugar for 20 minutes or until thick and syrupy. Pour warm syrup over cake 10 minutes after it comes out of oven. This glaze is specially luscious spooned over individual cake slices.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When walls are being washed before a painting session, make sure they are thoroughly rinsed. Any cleanser left on the area to be painted slows up the drying process of the paint.

If you want to get your husband off to a fast start in the morning, have him sweeten his coffee with the quick-energy sweet, honey.

Light weight for a mother who has to haul baby's laundry quite a distance is a new polyethylene nursery pail. It has a snap cover and a metal handle. It is also non-chip, which is help if baby pushes it over frequently.

Snacks don't need to be difficult to make to be good. Try this: Spread a cracker with cream cheese, top with a slice of comb honey, then cover with another cracker. Or serve it open-faced.

Fresh Grapefruit Glamor—To enhance the flavor and color of fresh grapefruit, sprinkle one teaspoon grenadine syrup over each prepared grapefruit half. Serve chilled.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Girl, 14, Saves 7 Tots From Fire

LANGLEY, B.C. (CP)—Because first things come first with a 14-year-old baby-sitter named Rosalie Sloberg, seven small children here are alive today instead of being fire-victims.

"I didn't wait to save a thing," said Rosalie, after flames destroyed the small home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cote while the young married couple were in town collecting an unemployment insurance cheque to buy food.

"My first thought was to get the children out of the house."

Bill Nish, chief of the Northwest Langley volunteer fire department, thinks the baby-sitter should get a medal.

"Just for a starter," he said, "we're all in favor of making her an honorary fireman. But we would also like to see her get an official commendation for the brave and level-headed manner in which she saved those babies."

The five young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Cote and their two tiny cousins, had been put to bed for an afternoon nap before the baby-sitter took charge.

Shortly after the parents went into Langley, Rosalie noticed smoke filling the kitchen and heard flames crackling inside the walls.

She raced to the sleeping children and roused them all.

"I just grabbed a baby under each arm," she reported later, "and hurried the rest of them along. I had to keep them moving fast."

Once certain that all seven of her charges were out of danger, Rosalie gave thought to saving the house. She ventured back inside and battled her way through smoke and flames to reach a telephone and call for help.

When her mother reached the scene, the young baby-sitter was sitting on the grass outside the house with the children in a cluster around her.

"She still had a baby under either arm," said Mrs. John Sloberg. "And all eight of them were crying."

As firemen were fighting the blaze, the only boy in the Cote family, six, returned from school. By that time neighbors were taking the other frightened youngsters into their homes.

Frank Cote has been out of work for many months. All the family's possessions went up in smoke with their little rented home.

HOLODJA DEPORTED

VANCOUVER — Jaroslav Holodja, Polish refugee lawyer, left Canada Tuesday night for Australia in the liner Orion, unsuccessful in a last-minute bid to wait here for a United States visa. Canada is deporting Holodja to Australia, his temporary home for seven years after fleeing from Poland's Communist government.

Holodja waited in Australia for a U.S. visa. When he did get it and sailed for America, he suffered a mental breakdown and the visa was revoked.

He spent a year here, despondently cut his wrists when it appeared he couldn't get a new visa to see his sister in the U.S.

Lawyer John Taylor pleaded with the Orion's senior surgeon Tuesday night to make an order saying Holodja was unfit to travel. The surgeon declined to do so.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

PRINCE GEORGE—Frederick Chalifoux, of High Prairie, Alta., was committed for trial to a higher court here Tuesday on a murder charge. Chalifoux, a 22-year-old Cree Indian, is accused of murdering 27-year-old Charles Elkington of The Dalles, Ore., who was visiting friends at Prince George.

Crown witness Sylvia Gray testified she saw Chalifoux holding a knife against Elkington's chest.

BOY QUESTIONED

Stolen Baby Found Alive Under Porch

VANCOUVER (CP)—A boy "too young to be charged" is being questioned by city police here in connection with a weird kidnapping escape of a four-month-old Vancouver baby. The boy's age was not disclosed.

He was picked up after police found Kellie Anne, daughter of Mrs. Vernon Ingram, half buried in loose dirt under the porch of the Vancouver Bible Institute, two blocks from her home. The baby had her diapers removed, her shirt unbuttoned, was bruised and scraped but otherwise was unharmed.

The 20-year-old mother had earned on a frantic 45-minute search after her baby had disappeared from a carriage in front of her home.

"My baby is well and happy," said Mrs. Ingram today. "But now I am scared to put her out alone," she said. "The farthest Kellie will get from me is on the back porch when I am in the kitchen and can keep a constant vigil."

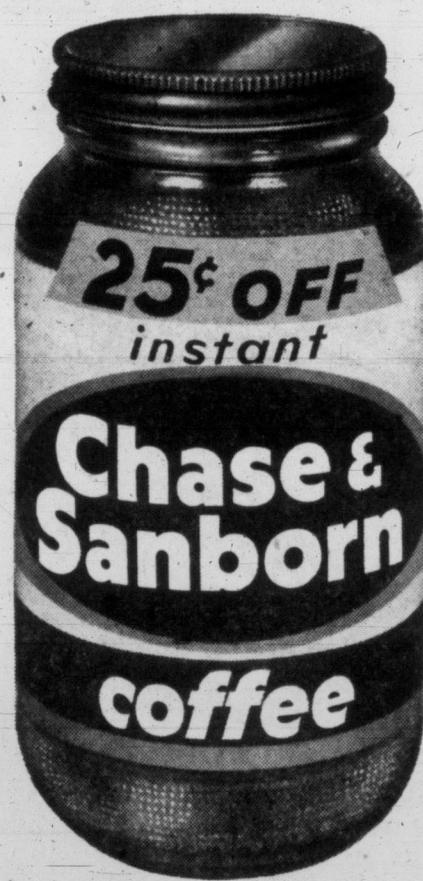

Mrs. Ingram, whose husband was working at Chilliwack, said she came out with a bundle of clothes and discovered her baby missing. After wildly questioning neighbors and a passerby, she called police.

When police came to tell her they had found the child, Mrs. Ingram said: "I let out a horrible scream—my mother told me after—and said if anything's wrong with my baby I'll die."

"It was the longest 45 minutes of my life.

"I'll take her everywhere now. I used to leave her outside the market when I went in. It frightened me even to think of it."

She said if the baby buggy had not been left in front of the steps where the infant was hidden, they might not have found her.

MALIGNANT NEOPLASM

Aid Asked in Fight Against Big Killer

By PETE LOUDON

If 279 people had been killed in Greater Victoria last year by snake bite, a national emergency would have been declared.

The people, the government, would spare no expense in organizing to rid the community of the menace.

If falling meteors had dispatched 279 people, the community would not only be aroused, it would be vacated.

In actual fact, 279 people did die here in 1956 from a cause

as insidious as poisonous snakes and as hard to combat as falling meteors—malignant neoplasms.

Never heard of malignant neoplasms?

Then this story's rather startling isn't it?

It might make one want to rush for a doctor's examination or start a fund to fight it. It needs fighting because unless it is detected early there is no cure for it and it represents a sad and lingering death.

How much more excited we can get over a killer we don't recognize than over a killer which is commonplace. Malignant neoplasms is cancer.

On April 1 a drive opens in Victoria and across Canada to raise funds to fight it through research and education and to provide aid for those already stricken.

Today medical science is curing 15 times as many cancers as were cured at the turn of the century, but each year there is a greater number of cases reported.

The Conquer Cancer campaign will accept donations in memory of the 279 who died from cancer last year in Greater Victoria and as a shield against a similar fate for thousands more in the next decade.

Pulp Mill Teams From Island in First Aid Tests

First aid teams from pulp mills throughout B.C. will compete in Vancouver April 10 in the ninth annual competition to be sponsored by the B.C. pulp and paper industry.

Teams will come from mills at Port Alice, Port McNeill, Prince Rupert, Ocean Falls, Richmond, Campbell River, Port Alberni, Nanaimo, and Powell River.

A realistic situation will confront the teams, from which they must deduce the problem and carry out the treatment.

The meet will be held in the Embassy Ballroom between 10 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Preparation and judging will be done by the St. John Ambulance Association.

Gomes for two—between baby and you—are not only fun but play an important part in helping baby to learn the three big Cs—coordination, cooperation and concentration. Anyone for peek-a-boo or pat-a-cake?

Handy idea. Easy way to determine which hand your baby is going to be handiest with often comes at his middle-most point. Natural grasping instinct will soon show which hand wants to take the lead.

Meat-y idea. Best "growing tools" for the baby who's growing by leaps and bounds are meat proteins—because they encourage growth and aid in the development of all body structures. Excellent source of high quality proteins: Gerber Strained Meats. Made from selected juicier cuts that are specially processed to remove most of the fat and coarse tissue—and to preserve the utmost

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the best questions will receive a set of books.

The younger who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times. Andy sends a complete 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Sandra Schutte, aged 10, of Sibley, Iowa, for her question:

Was Magellan the First to Make a Voyage Around the World?

The court of Portugal was abuzz with exciting news. The tales were of ocean voyages. Ships had sailed to and from the New World, around the Cape of Good Hope, to India and the Spice Islands. Queen Leonor's young page was agog at all these fascinating adventures. For he planned to become a mariner and explore the world. His plans succeeded. For this young lad was Ferdinand Magellan, rated by some as the greatest mariner of them all.

Magellan went to sea at 15, in the service of Portugal. On one voyage he was sent to explore the Spice Islands, the Moluccas at Indonesia. He sailed eastward and reached Banda, a little island in that region. Banda is just west of New Guinea right on longitude 130 degrees. Find Banda on the map and remember the longitude.

Magellan dreamed of carrying out Columbus's plan to reach the Indies by sailing west from Europe. But misfortune prevented him from making this voyage for Portugal. He was lamed in a battle and, even worse, displeased the king of Portugal. He went to Spain and so the first voyage to circle the globe flew the colors of Spain. Captain Magellan set sail on his flagship the Trinidad with a fleet of four more small sailing ships and full crews. The greatest of all voyages left Seville to sail down the river and out to sea on August 10, 1519. Three years later, only one ship was to return with 18 men. This ship, the Vittoria, was the first vessel ever to sail clear around the world in one voyage. But Magellan was not among those who returned.

The voyage began with high hopes for finding a waterway through South America which would link the Atlantic with the Pacific. One ship had deserted and there had been signs of mutiny before Magellan found the strait of water now named the Straits of Magellan in his honor. It took him 38 days to navigate the narrow, tricky waterway. Then the rocky shores and stormy seas gave way to a calm and beautiful ocean. It was Magellan, not Balboa who discovered it, who named it the Pacific. For months the expedition sailed westward with gentle breezes and calm seas. But they were weakened by hunger, thirst and disease.

The little ships came at last to Guam, where they rested and took on supplies. Then westward they sailed again and crossed that same longitude 130 degrees, somewhat north of Banda. Magellan had already sailed from the east as far as this longitude. So, in the two voyages, he had already sailed clear around the whole world. He was the first mariner ever to encompass the globe.

Cebu, an island of the Philippines, was the next port of call. It was here that Magellan met his death by treachery. The savage king of the island also murdered the two men next in command of the voyage. The survivors escaped in two ships, the Trinidad and the Vittoria. But the brave little flagship soon sprung a leak and had to be left behind. Juan Sebastian del Corno was left in command of the Vittoria, the only ship remaining. Sebastian and his 18 men were the first to circumnavigate the globe in a single voyage. Sebastian was the first to give the full honor to the brave captain who had perished on the way. For it was Magellan who planned the voyage and guided it over the uncharted seas. From where he perished, the way home was well known to Sebastian.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Sally Ottawa, age 9, of Wichita, for her question:

How does the click beetle click?

Some 500 different click beetles make their homes in his back. He presses on the ground with the back of his head and wings to get purchase, then suddenly lets go. The sudden jerk sends him up and over in a loop to land on his feet. The click is made when the little prong suddenly snaps back into the groove to close the seam in the armor.

(B TO BB) "THE GREAT MAN" (Odeon): It is unusual to see the distinguished American actor Jose Ferrer in a poor motion picture. Nonetheless, in Universal-International's "The Great Man," he is.

Fortunately for Ferrer, who gave such a sensitive portrayal of artist Toulouse-Lautrec in "Moulin Rouge" and who won an academy for his "Cyrano de Bergerac," the fault lies not in him or even in his supporting players but in the slow, draggy, uninteresting plot that is mired down by more words than compassed in the Encyclopedia Britannica.

It is often said that there is nothing more tiring than standing. If so, then the principals of "The Great Man" must have been thoroughly exhausted by the time the film was finished. Because that's about all they did do for the entire 92 minutes running—stand and talk.

And who was responsible for this? None other than Ferrer himself. Not the actor Ferrer but director Ferrer who was also responsible for the script

'A HALFWAY HOUSE AT THE CROSSROADS OF WAR'

New Plea Made by Pearson To Organize Permanent UNEF

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson has made a new plea for establishment of a permanent United Nations Emergency Force.

He warns in the current issue of the American quarterly Foreign Affairs that failure of the UN force now in Egypt may deliver a fatal blow to the concept of peace supervision and avoidance of hostilities through the UN General Assembly.

Elaborating on ideas put forward in the Commons earlier this year, Mr. Pearson suggests that member nations of the UN, excluding the security council, should be willing to earmark forces for duty in securing cease-fires.

In this way, the UN might be able to construct "a halfway house at the crossroads of war."

"If we fail in this a damaging blow—perhaps a fatal one—will be dealt to the whole concept of supervising the peace and avoiding hostilities through the UN assembly.

"If we succeed, then we must build on that success so that when we are faced in the future with similarly complicated and dangerous situations we can avoid the hasty improvisations of last autumn . . ."

LONDON (Reuters)—The face of the first defence witness in the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams suddenly contorted.

His arms raised slowly and he gradually bent over backwards until he disappeared from view below the edge of the raised witness box.

That Dr. John Hartman, was a demonstration of a spinal convulsion brought on by morphine poisoning. He said the victim would be talking normally as he was, go into contortions and then come back to normal again. After his testimony, the trial adjourned for the day.

Adams' Mistrial Plea Ruled Out

Judge Rejects 2-Hour Submission
By Defence in Eastbourne Murder Case

LONDON (Reuters)—The judge today refused to stop the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams, ruling out a defence submission that the prosecution had failed to establish a case.

Judge Sir Patrick Devlin rejected a long argument by defence counsel Geoffrey Lawrence that the defence had no case to answer following evidence by the prosecution's 19 witnesses. He told Lawrence:

"I have considered most carefully your submission on the . . . evidence but my conclusion is it does give rise to questions which can only be properly determined by . . . the jury."

The defendant listened intently with his head cocked while his lawyer made a fervent two-hour appeal which the judge rejected even before he had finished.

Lawrence then prepared to present his case, announcing he would not put the defendant into the witness box.

Adams, 58, is charged with the murder by overoses of drugs of a patient, Mrs. Edith Morrell, 81; a wealthy widow who died in the seaside resort of Eastbourne six years ago. The prosecution has claimed the motive was greed for possessions the doctor believed he would inherit.

ADDITIONAL WITNESS

At the start of today's proceedings the Crown counsel, who finished his case Tuesday, asked for an additional witness to be called—Dr. Francis Camps, government pathologist. The witness was asked technical questions about the formalities of cremation and post-mortem examinations.

Lawrence stressed that the burden of making out a charge of murder was always upon the prosecution.

"What has to be disclosed by the case for the prosecution is, in my submission, a real case of murder and not some shadowy adumbration of possibility," the counsel said.

"If ever there was a case in which the principle I am evolving in my aid now should be strictly applied, it is this case."

The charge of murdering Mrs. Morrell involved the

Ontario Trial Of Sunday News Faces Delay

TORONTO (CP)—Magistrate Thomas S. Elmore today adjourned until April 17 hearing of charges under the Lord's Day Act against three Toronto daily newspapers, the CBC and radio station CKEY.

The adjournment was made at the suggestion of Crown Counsel C. F. H. Garson, who proposed a definite date for hearing of the charges be fixed at that time.

Facing charges of violating the act are the Toronto Telegram, The Toronto Star and the Globe and Mail, as well as the CBC and the Toronto Broadcasting Company Ltd., operators of station CKEY.

Mr. Garson said counsel for the Telegram and the Star had informed him it would be impossible or inconvenient to proceed with the hearing at this time.

"In light of this, I informed them and other counsel that we would not proceed with the trials this morning but would ask that they stand over for two weeks," Mr. Carson said.

Then counsel for the Telegram had told him that he would be unable to proceed on April 17 and had suggested adjournment to a later date or to April 17 when a trial date would be fixed.

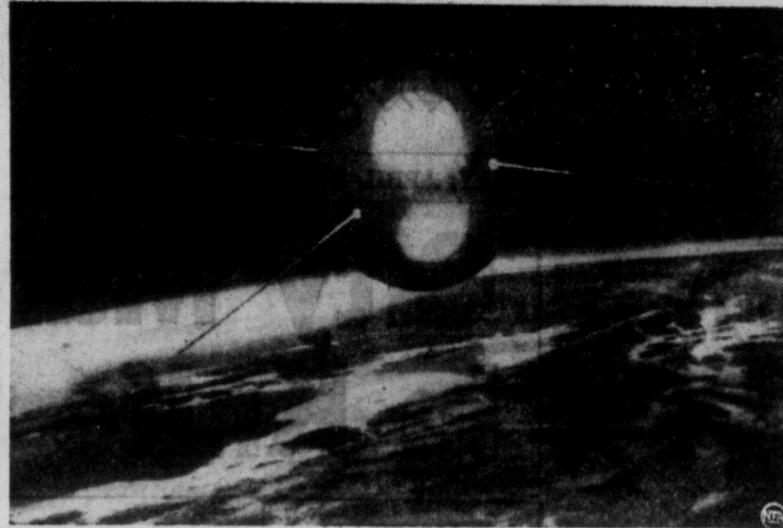

Magistrate Elmore asked if this was satisfactory to all counsel. Walter Williston, representing the CBC, said that it was possible that on April 17 he might ask a longer adjournment because of another motion he had before the courts.

That motion will be heard in Ontario Supreme Court April 16.

WIDE, WIDE SPACES — This is an artist's conception of what a man-made earth satellite will look like if and when it passes over the lower part of the southwest United States and northern Mexico. The earth area below, about 600,000 square miles, is actually pictured in a photo made at an altitude of 143.3 miles from a U.S. Navy Viking 12 rocket in 1955. The artist took the picture and drew upon it the earth satellite as he thinks it will look when in flight some time during the International Geophysical Year, which will run from July 1, 1957, to Dec. 31, 1958. (NEA)

18 YEARS OF TRYING WITH NO RESULTS

Spiritualist Ends Famous Pact To Break Life-Death Barrier

DETROIT (AP)—One of the last members of a 10-year-old pact aimed at communicating with the dead says it is about time to give up.

"I've been at this for 18 years and nothing has come of it," Charles D. Noble said. "And I think I'll let it die with me."

Noble will keep trying to make contact with his deceased friends — magician Howard Thurston, lawyer Clarence Darow and explorer Carveth Wells — until he joins them in death.

But he says he will not name a "successor" to himself in the pact to try to communicate with his spirit.

The strange agreement to break the barrier between life and death, or prove it could not be done, was formed in 1850 by two magicians, Conte and Herriman the Great.

Although skeptical, they charged the survivor of each anniversary of the other's death would hold an object associated with the deceased. The spirit of the dead man was supposed to knock the "object" from his hand.

The pact also obligated the surviving member to name one or two successors. Noble, a Detroit salesman of 65 who dabbles in magic as a hobby, was brought into the pact by Thurston, a boffin friend.

The only other surviving member of the pact is Harry Blackstone, the magician. Blackstone is 81 and in ill health. The experiment is far from a failure to Noble.

"To me the fact that it hasn't worked is the salvation of the whole idea. It shows up the spiritualists who tell people they can bring a person back from the dead."

BANDIT LEADER STILL FREE

U.S. Woman's Killer Slain in Gun Battle

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI)—Iranian federal police announced today that the slayer of Mrs. Anita Carroll was one of the Dad Shah bandits killed in a gun battle with loyal tribesmen in Baluchistan Monday.

But the leader of the bandits, the legendary Baluchistan Badman known as Dad Shah, apparently had escaped a police net with most of his gang and now may be hiding out in Pakistan.

A government official announced that Dad Shah's brother-in-law Ghader Dad has been identified as the gunman who shot pretty Mrs. Carroll on March 24, shortly after the gang killed her husband, another American and two Iranian employees of the American Point Four aid program in Iran.

Ghader Dad and two other bandits were killed Monday in a skirmish with a posse of loyal tribesmen armed by the government for the Dad Shah manhunt.

Despite this early success against the killers, the Dad Shah incident sparked a long-brewing government crisis that brought about the resignation of Premier Hussein Ali.

Aia told the nation in a radio broadcast tonight: "I have submitted the cabinet's resignation now that his imperial majesty has commanded me to assume the post of court minister."

He offered congratulations to the present court minister, Dr. Manouchehr Eghbal, who already had been called by the Shah to form a new government.

Council members are Sidney Fox, James T. McEvitt, William Michell, Lloyd Wood, Victor J. Wood, Bob Shaw, Harold Andrew, Rom Knott, H. E. Baade, Clarence Covell and Charles Harris.

The annual banquet of the chamber will be held at Brenta Lodge April 10.

FISH-POWER FEUD

UBC Professor Challenged To Debate

(See Page 16)

Challenge to UBC professor Dr. H. V. Warren to engage in personal debate to defend his "fish and power" belief in relation to the proposed huge Moran dam on the Fraser was issued here today by Tom Parke, Prince Rupert, northern business agent for the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' union.

"I'd be only too happy to take him on myself, or for that matter, so would any executive member of the union."

Dr. Warren said here Monday that, in effect, fish and power could co-exist in future hydro developments of the river.

He felt it would penalize property owners.

He said the taxation of business property owners rather than the occupants would be beyond city council powers. (Under the scheme,

Chamber Supports Business Tax Plan

Support for the Wyatt plan for a business tax in Victoria was indicated Tuesday by the Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber secretary-manager Arnold Webb said the merchants' group would ask to be represented at city hall discussions on application of the tax.

City manager C. C. Wyatt proposed to Ald. Austin Curtis' business tax committee that a set percentage of all business property assessments should be taxed and the present business licence system dropped.

SMITH AGAINST

Ald. J. Donald Smith, who started the drive for a business tax at the council level last year, objected to the taxation scheme presented by Mr. Wyatt.

He felt it would penalize property owners.

He said the taxation of business property owners rather than the occupants would be beyond city council powers. (Under the scheme,

Radisson ponders the Pipeline

In his day few knew the northwest as did Radisson, Radisson, a businessman trader, knew values. He knew the territory. He invested in what he knew and he blazed profit trails for others to follow. Canada's new pipe line will run over land his moccasins once trod.

Born a century and a quarter ago in Canada, The Bank of Nova Scotia shares the spirit of Radisson. Our people, too, know their territory, and are helping businessmen and industry blaze trails to a higher standard of living for Canadians... by directing community savings

NEW YORK—Israel's decision to withdraw her troops from the Gaza and Aqaba areas has caused a good many people here to look with new respect upon the Middle East policy of the United States government.

Until now, this policy has seemed to many people to be a patchwork quilt, made up by Mr. Dulles as he rolled along, and smelling heavily of oil. But now it seems that a pattern is emerging, and as of this moment there is a great deal of respect for United States strategy.

Among the nations seeming to share that respect is the United Kingdom, which only four months ago was diametrically opposed to the United States on all important attitudes in the Middle East.

Evidence that the rift between Great Britain and the United States over Mid-East policy has narrowed considerably since the open break of last November was seen in the latest speech before the General Assembly by Commander Allan Noble, Her Majesty's minister of state for foreign affairs.

His speech was important because of Britain's heavy stakes in world shipping and Middle Eastern oil, and because it was designed to bolster Israel's assumptions about the administration of the Gaza Strip, and freedom of navigation into the Gulf of Aqaba.

In aligning herself behind Washington's policy in the Israeli-Egyptian crisis, Britain evidently believes this policy is moving in such a way that Col. Nasser of Egypt will be isolated and forced to terms.

This applies not only to the questions of Gaza and Aqaba, but to the even more vital issue of the reopening of the Suez Canal.

And Nasser will feel other pressures as well, for the United States has been wooing Egypt's neighbors, Arab and otherwise, and signs are emerging that some of this spade-work may be succeeding.

Col. Nasser could wind up with only Jordan and Syria as close allies, and with only

Lynch

Russia as a bulwark among the great powers. He is not likely to relish that prospect, and already there are reports that he would like to make a start on renewing diplomatic relations with the United Kingdom.

If those reports are true, then Nasser must have been dismayed by Commander Noble's speech in the assembly, expressing Britain's support for two things Israel wants—international administration and control of Gaza, and freedom of navigation through the Straits of Tiran into the Gulf of Aqaba.

Commander Noble said the Straits of Tiran must be regarded as an international waterway, through which the vessels of all nations have a right of passage. He added that Her Majesty's government will assert this right on behalf of all British shipping, and would be prepared to join with others to secure general recognition of this right.

As for the Gaza Strip, Commander Noble said the assumptions and expectations of Israel are reasonable, and should present no difficulties. He expressed the hope that the United Nations would continue to exercise its responsibilities in the Gaza Strip without difficulties being raised from any side.

SWITCH FROM DEFENSIVE

In saying all this, Commander Noble was voicing a change in Britain's attitude in the Middle East debate—a switch from the defensive posture she has held almost since last November, to a positive desire to contribute to future events. He was expressing faith in the role to be played by the United Nations itself in the Middle East.

In aligning herself beside the United States in this way, Britain is of course rejoining the game of power politics in the Middle East. High-sounding phrases are difficult to use about any nation's policies in that area, nor is this likely to change in the near future.

If Col. Nasser wants to know about power politics, it will be pointed out to him that he started the latest sequence of Middle East events with his seizure of the Suez Canal; that he has done his utmost to rally Arab and Asian support for Egypt's position; that he continues to use the canal as a pawn in the bargaining game.

Shadow to the Screen

LONDON—Two things that puzzle the public about the moviemakers are (a) why when they are transferring a book to the screen they invariably make drastic changes for no apparent reason, and (b) why so much time and money is wasted on what would seem to be the relatively simple operation of bringing a story to the screen. I have just had first-hand insight into both of these facets of film-making.

In the last week or so the company making a film of my novel, "Follow a Shadow," has had me in for three script conferences. For one accustomed to working on newspapers and periodicals, these have been an eyeopener.

Reyburn On a newspaper when the handling of a big news story is being planned or a magazine when a feature series is mapped out the people concerned get down to business right away. But in movies that's not the way to go about things.

The initial script conference was held in the palatial office of Mr. G., chief of the story department. Also present were Mr. N., the producer, and several other people whose precise reason for being there I never did discover.

First thing, of course, was to get the cigars out. In the movie world it seems that you can't carry on any sort of discussion except through a haze of cigar smoke. To a film man, the cigar is a symbol of profound thought.

When someone asks you a question which completely stumps you, all you need do is take it out of your mouth, toy with it while contemplating the smoke lazily rising from it, say "Well, yes and no," and you have given the impression of a great mind at work.

At this first conference a grand total of nothing was achieved. But they all seemed to enjoy it, especially the cigars. All left the room convinced the book was going to make a great movie.

The second conference came me an inkling why changes are made. In the book the heroine, a married woman, has a love affair. Out. If you want to get the censor's certificate for general exhibition, no love affairs.

"But it's the main point of the whole book," he said.

"We'll get around it," said Mr. G.

Then someone asked if the book had been checked for libel. It hadn't, so the conference was scrubbed while a copy was sent to the company's lawyer for his opinion.

The third conference was devoted to a discussion on libel and here I learned a reason why drastic changes are often made in the film version of a book. Although a book might be published without anyone suing the publishers for libel, that doesn't mean to say that the moviemakers will not be sued for filming the same story.

People who feel they have been libeled in a book often hold back until a film version is made, feeling they can get more money out of a film company than a publisher.

So much for the first three script conferences. Not a line of the script on paper yet. But what's the hurry? There's the rest of the year untouched.

A single lump sum of money received by a taxpayer can make the tax impost unusually heavy and the Income Tax Act allows some alleviation in some of these cases.

Examples of such payments are lump sums paid to employees on retirement, withdrawal from pension schemes, and payments made as death benefits.

In Victoria where there are many hundreds of women civil servants the case can often arise of a girl withdrawing her superannuation payments in one lump sum in preparation for marriage. Teachers also fall into this category.

The recipient may have considerable other income in the year of receiving a lump sum payment. The amount of the lump sum payment can be taken into income in the year of receipt or can be ex-

Dig Easy Around Those Late-Comers

When digging and cultivating between the flowering perennials and adding the top dressing of good compost, it is all too easy to cut the tops from some choice specimens not yet showing.

One-late-comer in our garden is Thalictrum dipterocarpum, and its variety Hettie's Double. It is a good plant to leave a foot of stems on the plants in the fall to mark their location.

The early summer flowering Thalictrum, T. aquilegiformis, has already made much handsome growth, but the three kinds are so entirely different that all should be grown.

MANY ADMIRERS

A strikingly attractive border subject with many admirers is the rather unusual Bocconia cordata, or, as it is now to be known, Macleaya cordata. It has several common names such as Plume Poppy and Tree Celadine. The plants grow to six feet in rich loamy soil and full sunshine. Leaves are large, lobed and greyish purple. The flowers, which are without petals, come in buff-colored plumes. Watch for the young tips showing soon, for once established bocconia propagates by sucker growths.

Mayor Quits Town; Fed Up With Politics

CHICAGO (UPI)—The mayor of Dalton, Ga., turned up Tuesday working as a laborer in a Chicago paper factory and said "I just got sick and tired of small town politics."

"Being mayor was nothing but a lot of headaches," Mayor Clarence Green, 32, said.

Green, who still has nine months left of his two-year term, said he campaigned as a "working man's mayor."

BIG JOKE

"I was the first mayor of Dalton I can remember who was neither a doctor nor a lawyer," he said. "When I ran everybody thought it a big joke. When I got elected the people who really run Dalton were pretty shocked."

Green said he soon discovered, however, that his hands were tied. "The mayor was nothing but a puppet," he said. "The four city councilmen really ran the town. The mayor couldn't initiate new legislation and could only vote when the councilmen tied. He just sat there and did what he was told."

Vancouver, Royal City to Honor Fraser's Historic River Journey

VANCOUVER (CP)—Simon Fraser was a poor diarist. And one of his omissions has caused both Vancouver and New Westminster to plan ceremonies marking the historic voyager's landfall down the Fraser River.

Fraser's voyage ended somewhere on the coast—but British Columbia centennial historians are not sure where.

Opinion is divided between sites at New Westminster and within the boundary of Vancouver.

The ceremonies will be held in the two cities on consecutive days—July 1, 1958, in New Westminster, and July 2 in Vancouver.

Eighteen experienced boatmen will start out May 28 next year on the re-enactment of the Fraser trip from Fort George to the coast.

MONTE ROBERTS

There is a very challenging article in the current SatEvePost.

It is all about a professor of medicine, a Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman, of the University of Chicago.

Like so many professors, Dr. Kleitman is a specialist, and what do you suppose he specializes in?

Sleep.

Please don't misunderstand. He does not specialize in sleeping. What he specializes in is the study of sleep.

And you can read all about Dr. Kleitman's studies in the above-mentioned article, which bears the title "so you think you need eight hours sleep?"

Naturally, I read the article, because I certainly do think I need eight hours sleep.

In fact, I often feel I need 24 hours sleep, and I DO mean consecutively.

But I felt duty bound to read the article, to find out if this scientific professor felt I need eight hours sleep.

Well, I found out that sleep sometimes sneaks up on you slowly, and sometimes it arrives with a rush—zoom, you're asleep.

I also found out that students of sleep feel it is slightly miraculous that more of the average lifetime isn't spent in sleep. Dr. Kleitman points out that man stays awake more than animals do because man has added "wakefulness of choice" to "wakefulness of necessity."

In case you didn't know, wakefulness of necessity is the kind animals maintain to find food.

In other words, when they're hungry, animals wake up and eat so they can go back to sleep.

Man, on the other hand, often stays awake when his natural inclination is to go to sleep.

This is what Dr. Kleitman calls "wakefulness of choice," and what is more, the professor hails it as a "tremendous evolutionary development."

I would quarrel with Dr. Kleitman on whether or not this development is to be cheered or boozed, but my purpose in reading the article was to find out whether or not I need eight hours sleep.

And do you know what?

I never did find out.

Before I got to that part of the article, I fell asleep.

Power Body Again Hires Rainmakers

The B.C. Power Commission today signed a new three-year contract with a U.S. rain-making firm to continue cloud-seeding in the Campbell River watershed.

The action was taken in the face of recent B.C. Research Council report which was skeptical of the rain-makers' success.

Council scientists investigated four areas in the province where cloud-seeding was taking place, including the Campbell River area, and stated:

"No change in rainfall as a result of seeding has been proved in any area."

Commission officials stated last year however that North American Weather Consultants, first hired in March 1955, appeared to be having some degree of success."

A Commission spokesman said today that "over the past two years, whether due to the rain-making activities or not, precipitation has been very favorable in the area."

"The Commission in its efforts to maintain adequate storage water on the river, cannot afford to overlook this fact."

It was stated that an increase of 10 per cent in any one of the fall months in the 600-square mile watershed would provide the Commission with an extra $30,000 to $100,000 in electric power sales.

This would more than pay for the total annual cost of the rain-making machines.

Flexible Funds For Banks Called 'Must'

Hope that the so-called tight money policy might be eased by year's end was expressed here today by the general manager of the Bank of Montreal.

G. Arnold Hart, visiting branches here, said he foresaw no overall slackening of the policy, but "hoped for some relief."

He objected to the Bank of Canada suggestion that charter banks should divide business between personal and commercial investment limited to long-term transactions.

"We must have flexible funds," he said.

With rationed credit today must be spread around as much as possible, said the 44-year-old Toronto-born banker.

Personal borrowing is still allowed for "legitimate purposes" but is not allowed for speculative investment, he stated.

COMPLEMENTS OF BANKS

To the suggestion that restorative credit might drive many borrowers to finance companies, he said such companies were complements of the banks.

"Many persons may not be entitled to bank loans, so the finance companies charge a higher rate of interest commensurate with the risk."

Mr. Hart said before credit restrictions were clamped on, "we had all the ingredients for inflation," and there is still tremendous competition for the dollar.

Appointed general manager January 1 this year, he is travelling western Canada with other Bank of Montreal officials.

This would more than pay for the total annual cost of the rain-making machines.

Socreds Mourn Chetwynd Death

'Shock to Us All'—Black; Ministers to Cut Holidays

Ralph Chetwynd, minister of agriculture in the provincial cabinet and a pioneer B.C. Interior rancher, died today in Veterans' Hospital. He was 66.

Mr. Chetwynd was stricken with a heart attack March 11.

He was first elected to the legislature in the June, 1952, election and became a member of the first Social Credit cabinet, taking over the portfolios of fisheries, trade and industry and railways.

Mr. Chetwynd was re-elected from Cariboo riding in 1953 and 1956, when he became agriculture minister.

Illness forced him to miss most of the recent session of the legislature and his predecessor in the agriculture department, Mines Minister Kenneth Kieran, took over his duties in the House.

The minister became ill Feb. 25 and spent two weeks at home. He took his seat in the legislature March 7 and 8 but members noted he appeared tired.

Two days later he entered hospital for a checkup and suffered a heart attack the same day. He had been on the hospital for the funeral after arrangements are announced.

Three By-Elections Coming Up

Royal Field Artillery in 1916 and won the Military Cross when he was wounded in action on the Somme in 1918, while acting battery commander.

After discharge he returned to Walhachin but found that the irrigation system which supplied water for the Marquis of Anglesey and others had failed, leaving the area without water and forcing the holders to abandon their properties.

Attorney-General Robert Bennett took over the trade and industry portfolio in a minor shuffle last week, but this is considered only a stop-gap appointment until a full-time minister is found.

Mr. Chetwynd worked with the Douglas Lake Cattle Co. for the next three years and became interested in breeding and training polo ponies.

During the 1920s and 1930s he bred many of the outstanding polo ponies which were used in polo tournaments on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Chetwynd was an ardent polo player himself.

He started sheep ranching near Kamloops during the depression and between 1930 and 1942 was the marketing agent for the B.C. Sheep Breeders' Association and the Cariboo Stockmen's Association in Vancouver.

He also became manager and agent for the Marquis of Anglesey over his large holdings in the province.

While operating his holdings at Walhachin, Mr. Chetwynd started a freighting business for contractors building the Canadian Northern Railway and had over 100 teams of horses working on the project.

He went overseas with the railway until his election in 1952.

Mr. Chetwynd is survived by his widow, the former Frances Mary Juge of Walhachin, and a son and two grandsons in Vancouver.

Both permits were issued for the month of February.

Total permits for this quarter number 152, against 242 for the first three months of 1956, and the value of 86 permits for dwellings at $977,000 compares with $1,022,100 for 159 permits last year.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Does Your Spring Cleaning Include Polishing Copper?

By PENNY SAVER

Spring gardening, spring cleaning and spring shopping are keeping everyone busy right now. Where are your energies directed? All those copper pieces in your house . . . do they need a good seasonal cleaning? This needn't be an all-day job requiring jars and tins of cleansers and heaps of cleaning cloths. You can wash away tarnish the same way you wash dishes. The newest thing out is a sponge copper cleaner that has a cleaning formula worked right into the sponge. Wet it, rub it across the copper, and rinse away the suds. Away comes the tarnish, too, and the job you've been putting off for so long is done in a jiffy.

You don't wash the sponge out, just let it dry, because too much sudsing will wash away the formula. For those copper-bottomed pans or for your attractive copper planter, these sponges are real work savers. The price . . . 59 cents.

For spring shopping lists, here are some collar and neckline brighteners. A dab of glamour can be given even the plainest of blouses and dresses with the exciting matador ribbon ties I found. Made of wide grosgrain ribbon, these ties are highlighted with contrasting silk floral ribbon and sequins and beads. You can wear them with your favorite collared sweater, blouse or dress that needs a little "something" to make it really smart. They come in blue, pink, navy and yellow, and are priced at $1 each. These would be wonderful little gifts for that girl "who seems to have everything."

If you would like to know where to buy any of the articles I have mentioned in the column, please call me at 2-3131 and I'll gladly tell you where I shopped.

A Protect-Your-Health Role Played by Necessary Vitamin C

We probably have a British naval surgeon, who sailed the seas some 150 years ago, to thank for our knowledge of Vitamin C. He did not unravel the whole story, but he discovered that citrus fruits—oranges, lemons or limes—if eaten daily by sailors, would prevent or cure the dreaded seafarers' disease, scurvy. In fact, his men became nicknamed "Limeys," for their daily ration of citrus fruit juice.

Vitamin C—or ascorbic acid as it is sometimes called—performs many important functions in its daily "protect-your-health" role. Because it is needed for the proper development of all the cells in your body, it affects healthy growth and maintenance of teeth, bones, tissues and blood. One of the simplest ways of describing its role is to say that Vitamin C actually helps to hold your body together. It is vital to the material that helps hold the cells together, like the cement between bricks.

EASILY LOST

Vitamin C is often known as the temperamental vitamin. Unlike most of the other essential nutrients in our foods, it is easily destroyed (or oxidized) by heat, light and air. Fruits and vegetables, rich natural sources of Vitamin C, are most valuable when eaten fresh and raw. Excessive cooking and long storage under home conditions usually mean expensive losses of this "disappearing" vitamin. However, modern commercial canning and freezing processes are so well controlled that only small losses occur. Therefore, commercially canned or frozen citrus fruit juices, fruits and vegetables normally are good sources of Vitamin C. It's wise to remember, though, when foods rich in Vitamin C are stored in your refrigerator they should be tightly covered and preferably left in their original containers.

LOUISE DAVIS.

On Etiquette

A question about a receiving line: My husband, my mother and I will be giving an Open House at our country club in a couple of months for my daughter and her husband who are returning to this country after four years in Europe. My husband is the daughter's stepfather. The young people have never met my husband's brothers and their families, and we will be inviting many people whom my mother doesn't know. I would like to know how we should stand in line. My husband and I will naturally know everyone, but I would like to have my mother in the line too. I

Louise Davis wonder if there is some accepted way by which we could eliminate the line altogether.

Louise Davis answers:

I don't see how you could do away with a receiving line. It wouldn't work. One would form anyway, so you might as well prepare for it. Have your mother stand with you. It doesn't matter if she won't know everyone. They will make themselves known as they pass, or, as you will be standing next to her, you would have opportunities to introduce them. Your husband and you should head the line, and next to you would be your mother, as she too will be a hostess. Then comes your daughter and her husband. You can be casual and informal in receiving, especially during the times when the incoming crowd isn't "thick." With your husband, your mother and you as host and hostesses, you three would have to be available at a convenient spot for the guests who naturally come to you after entering the club. Your daughter and her husband, being guests of honor, would therefore have to be ready to greet everyone too. So the logical procedure would be to have some semblance of a line. There would be no point in having your husband's brothers and their wives stand with you, as their category will be that of guests.

WHY GROW OLD?

Lemon Is Much Maligned—Actually, It's Most Important Fruit

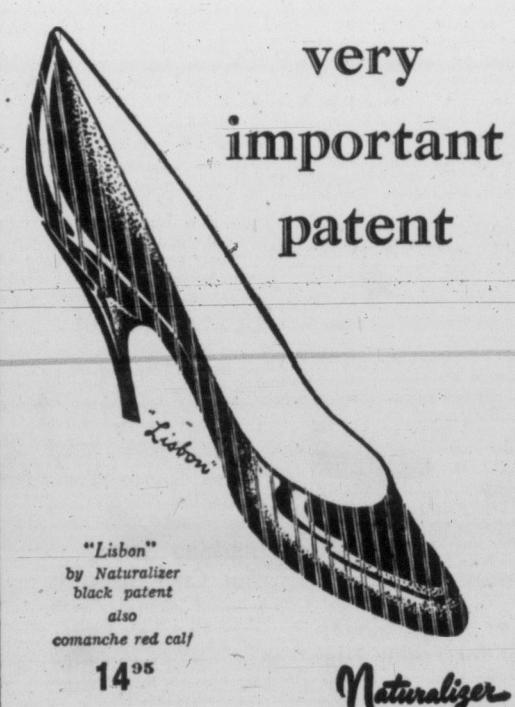

The poor lemon has taken much maligned. When we wish to indicate that someone has a sour disposition we say she or he is a lemon. Actually, the lemon is one of our most important fruits and is used in more different ways than almost any other. It is a great health and beauty aid.

First let us think of its value as a food. Today practically everyone knows that lack of fresh Vitamin C can cause scurvy. This disease is almost non-existent in the world today, although each year produces a few cases. Vitamin C is widely used and sparsely distributed in vegetables and fruits. The citrus fruits are the richest source.

Long ago, before we knew about vitamins, scurvy was a much dreaded illness, especially by those on long sea voyages. For example, consider the voyage of Lord Anson who sailed from England in November, 1740, with six ships and more than 900 men. When he returned to England in June, 1744, he had lost five of his six ships and four-fifths of his men because of scurvy.

Life Begins At 60, Says Dr. Hilliard

In her 25 years as a distinguished Canadian obstetrician and gynecologist Dr. Marion Hilliard has seen hundreds of women revolt bitterly against inevitable encroaching years. "I'm astounded by their attitude. No time of life seems to me more rich and blessed than those years after 60," writes Doctor Hilliard in a recent issue of a Canadian women's magazine.

Dr. Hilliard has some words of advice for women who are inclined to face old age as "an enemy capable of hideous atrocities."

She says: "Accept the simple mechanical fact that people do not grow younger, but only older. Observe also that some people grow older more quickly, notably those who are most preoccupied with themselves. Others grow old slowly, because they are absorbed in living. Some never grow old at all; these are the few with warm hearts, ready laughter and lively minds."

Women usually begin to "panic" about the approach of old age when they are in their forties, Dr. Hilliard has observed. This is often because they see their own parents or older people around them react piteously to their lot. Instead of learning from this experience women often act as though they were using these embittered old people as a pattern for their own old age.

And speaking to younger people Dr. Hilliard has this to say about bringing the old folks to live with them: "Don't. I say this for the sake of the older person. No one should remove an aging person's independence. The older man or woman is better off with fewer material advantages and with independence than in the most elegant home where conformity with local rules is required."

Future Plans—At the meeting of the Junior Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital held this week in the Nurses' Home, plans were completed for a fashion show in Eaton's Victoria Room in mid-May with Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, the convener. It was also decided to hold a coffee party in the nurses' residence in June, featuring a begonia show from the conservatories of W. G. Botten.

SPRING IN PARK LANE

And to these clients at a hairdresser's this means out to the balcony to sit in the sunshine under the hairdryers. And with iced drinks and a manicurist at her service, what more could the English madam want in April? (Mirror Pic Photo.)

Names Conveners

At a meeting of Municipal Chapter, IODE, held recently with Mrs. A. Warren Smith in the chair, the following conveners were appointed: Empire study, Mrs. M. A. Teng; Commonwealth relations, Mrs. D. R. Kerley; distinguished visitors, Mrs. O. P. Fowler; Canadianization and immigration, Mrs. R. Freethy and transportation, Mrs. P. W. Bell.

Gordon's Holdup Confession Denied

VANCOUVER (CP) — The last-minute confession by convicted police killer Joe Gordon who went to the gallows here Tuesday was termed today as "ridiculous."

Gordon, in a letter to the justice department, claimed it was he who held up Brall Pharmacy at gunpoint last July for which another man, John Graham Bryson, 45, is serving a six-year sentence. "The holdup man definitely was not Joe Gordon," said Irma and David Brall, victims of the gunman.

Adams' Mistrial Plea Ruled Out

Judge Rejects 2-Hour Submission
By Defence in Eastbourne Murder Case

LONDON (Reuters)—The judge today refused to stop the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams, ruling out a defence submission that the prosecution had failed to establish a case.

Judge Sir Patrick Devlin rejected a long argument by defence counsel Geoffrey Lawrence that the defence had no case to answer following evidence by the prosecution's 19 witnesses. He told Lawrence:

"I have considered most carefully your submission on the . . . evidence but my conclusion is it does give rise to questions which can only be properly determined by . . . the jury."

The defendant listened intently with his head cocked while his lawyer made a fervent two-hour appeal which the judge rejected even before he had finished.

Lawrence then prepared to present his case, announcing he would not put the defendant into the witness box.

Adams, 58, is charged with the murder by overdoes of drugs of a patient, Mrs. Edith Morrell, 81, a wealthy widow who died in the seaside resort of Eastbourne six years ago. The prosecution has claimed the motive was greed for possessions the doctor believed he would inherit.

ADDITIONAL WITNESS

At the start of today's proceedings the Crown counsel, who finished his case Tuesday, asked for an additional witness to be called—Dr. Francis Camps, government pathologist. The witness was asked technical questions about the formalities of cremation and post-mortem examinations.

Lawrence stressed that the burden of making out a charge of murder was always upon the prosecution.

"What has to be disclosed by the case for the prosecution is, in my submission, a real case of murder and not some shadowy adumbration of possibility," the counsel said.

"If ever there was a case in which the principle I am evoking in my aid now should be strictly applied, it is this case."

The charge of murdering Mrs. Morrell involved the prosecution in two essential matters, he contended:

1. That by some act or acts of Dr. Adams, her death was in fact brought about.

2. That the act or acts were the reflection of a firm and deliberate intent to bring about death.

"I am going to submit that on neither of these two essential matters is there a real case to go to the jury," Lawrence said.

tive trace of the disease. However, in January, 1956, there was evidence of one sheep having the disease. It was decided to destroy the flock after removal of certain parts of the bodies for research into "the mysterious disease."

"On February 27, 1956, the slaughter started and on March 2, it was completed," Dr. Wells said.

All through the slaughter period there was close scrutiny to identify each sheep destroyed. Following Dr. Wells' evidence, Tom Goode (Burnaby-Richmond) demanded that Mr. McCulloch say why he had believed the rumors which he repeated in the Commons.

Mr. McCullough replied that when a member of Parliament hears a rumor, it was up to him to have that rumor cleared up. It was neither fair nor necessary for him to have to substantiate the rumors.

Eisenhower Reveals Secret Crisis Drama

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—President Eisenhower said today that at the height of the Suez Canal crisis last year he had considered inviting the British and French prime ministers to fly to Washington and announce a Suez cease-fire.

But he added that he decided that until the situation was such that it would be understood by the whole world, he should not do it.

In questioning at his press conference on the Middle East situation, Eisenhower said that in his correspondence with Prime Minister Ben-Gurion, the Israeli leader did not mention the subject of Israeli ships passing through the Suez Canal as one of the assurances he would need before withdrawing Israeli troops from Egypt.

The president was answering a question regarding the "assumption" under which Israel evacuated the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba areas.

Eisenhower said the only excuse Egypt is using in relation to Israeli shipping through the canal is its claim to belligerency.

He said the U.S. will continue to negotiate with Egypt over the operation of the canal as long as there is a chance for conciliation and a satisfactory settlement.

A HALFWAY HOUSE AT THE CROSSROADS OF WAR'

New Plea Made by Pearson To Organize Permanent UNEF

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson has made a new plea for establishment of a permanent United Nations Emergency Force.

The tornado lashed out of a black rainstorm. An estimated 100,000 people watched as it swayed a leisurely, jerky course through west and northwest Dallas. For 40 horror-filled minutes the lashing funnel filled the dark sky above a frozen city.

The twister came on a by-election day, just as rush-hour traffic was starting shortly after 4 p.m. People watched from roofs and windows of downtown buildings and from viaducts, homes and automobiles.

"Oh, Lawd, it roared down like a freight train and then was on us tearing our house down," Robert Thurman, 31, sobbed. Blood oozed from a wound in his head. He trembled from shock as he sat beside his injured wife at a hospital. She wept quietly, sitting in a wheelchair.

Ed Marsh, a heavily built Negro in his 40s, stood on a pile of grey concrete bricks that had been the walls of his Humble Oil Co. service station.

He pointed to blood smeared on the bricks and said, "That's where the old man was standing."

The unidentified old man was carried to a hospital. Marsh did not know if he was alive.

CHILDREN KILLED

The hospital was jammed with crying, wailing, bloody people. There were dozens of children, many numb and soaked with blood.

Four of the dead were children, including three in one family. One was a month-old girl and the three brothers and sisters, aged 5, 3, and 2.

The twister slammed into a Negro district of small frame houses in West Dallas, levelling 46 of them in a four-block area. Nearly 50 persons were injured there.

Police evacuated a 13-block area where 197 homes were destroyed.

"The house just fell in on top of us—the walls did, I mean, and the roof went somewhere else," sobbed Aron Armstrong as he brought his injured sister-in-law to the hospital. Blood poured from his own head wound.

Col. Felix Davis of Houston, who watched the holocaust from an airliner, said "It was the most amazing thing . . . watching the debris being kicked to all sides just like somebody had taken a lawn mower and moved through the area."

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—The heaviest spring snowstorm in 22 years cleared out of the Rocky Mountain states today, leaving five dead but promising abundant water for the area pinched by drought since 1949.

Jubilant farm leaders said the stacks of snow—some as high as five feet—on the mountain watersheds more than offset any livestock losses.

The damp plains were drenched with rain and snow. There was joy, too, for thousands of children who reaped an extra holiday as most schools closed down.

Rail, highway and air travel snarled and erratic for 36 hours—was expected to return to normal today.

Despite this early success against the killers, the Dad Shah incident sparked a long-brewing government crisis that brought about the resignation of Premier Hussein Alia.

Alia told the nation in a radio broadcast tonight: "I have submitted the cabinet's resignation now that his imperial majesty has commanded me to assume the post of court minister."

He offered congratulations to the present court minister, Dr. Manouchehr Eghbal, who already had been called by the Shah to form a new government.

UBC Professor Challenged To Debate

Challenge to UBC professor H. V. Warren to engage in personal debate to defend his "fish and power" belief in relation to the proposed huge Moran dam on the Fraser was issued here today by Tom Parkin, Prince Rupert, northern business agent for the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' union.

"I'd be only too happy to take him on myself, or for that matter, so would any executive member of the union."

Dr. Warren said here Monday that, in effect, fish and power could co-exist in future hydro developments of the river.

"We feel his attitude is reckless," said Mr. Parkin. "Dr. Warren is obviously working on behalf of the Moran dam interests."

He felt it would penalize property owners.

He said the taxation of business property owners rather than the occupants would be beyond city council powers. (Under the scheme, many years ago a common "treatment" for skin cancer in England was to tie a live toad to the tumor. Of course, it did no good. Today 95% of skin cancers are cured when treated early with X-ray or surgery.

Mr. Parkin said fish and power "cannot" exist on the same stream because of flooding, water temperature changes which can affect fish adversely, wiping out food sources, and delay in spawning which could be disastrous.

"Up to 80 per cent of spawn would be lost at Moran, and the mortality would be even greater in getting the fingerlings down again," he said.

Mr. Parkin pointed out that salmon, an important food source which the province needs, accounts for a $50,000,000 pack annually. Close to 10,000 people are involved in the industry, he said, with equipment valued at hundreds of millions of dollars.

Chamber Supports Business Tax Plan

Support for the Wyatt plan for a business tax in Victoria was indicated Tuesday by the Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber secretary-manager Arnold Webb said the merchants' group would ask to be represented at city hall discussions on application of the tax.

City manager C. C. Wyatt proposed to Ald. Austin Curtis' business tax committee that a set percentage of all business property assessments should be taxed and the present business licence system dropped.

SMITH AGAINST

Ald. J. Donald Smith, who started the drive for a business tax at the council level last year, objected to the taxation scheme presented by Mr. Wyatt.

He felt it would penalize property owners.

He said the taxation of business property owners rather than the occupants would be beyond city council powers. (Under the scheme, many years ago a common "treatment" for skin cancer in England was to tie a live toad to the tumor. Of course, it did no good. Today 95% of skin cancers are cured when treated early with X-ray or surgery.

Facing charges of violating the act are the Toronto Telegram, The Toronto Star and the Globe and Mail, as well as the CBC and the Toronto Broadcasting Company Ltd., operators of station CKY.
